Skyline students mingle with their German hosts while attending school in Tettnang, West Germany.

Full Course

Students and faculty sampled a variety of activities over the summer and were stuffed full of ideas when returning to school.

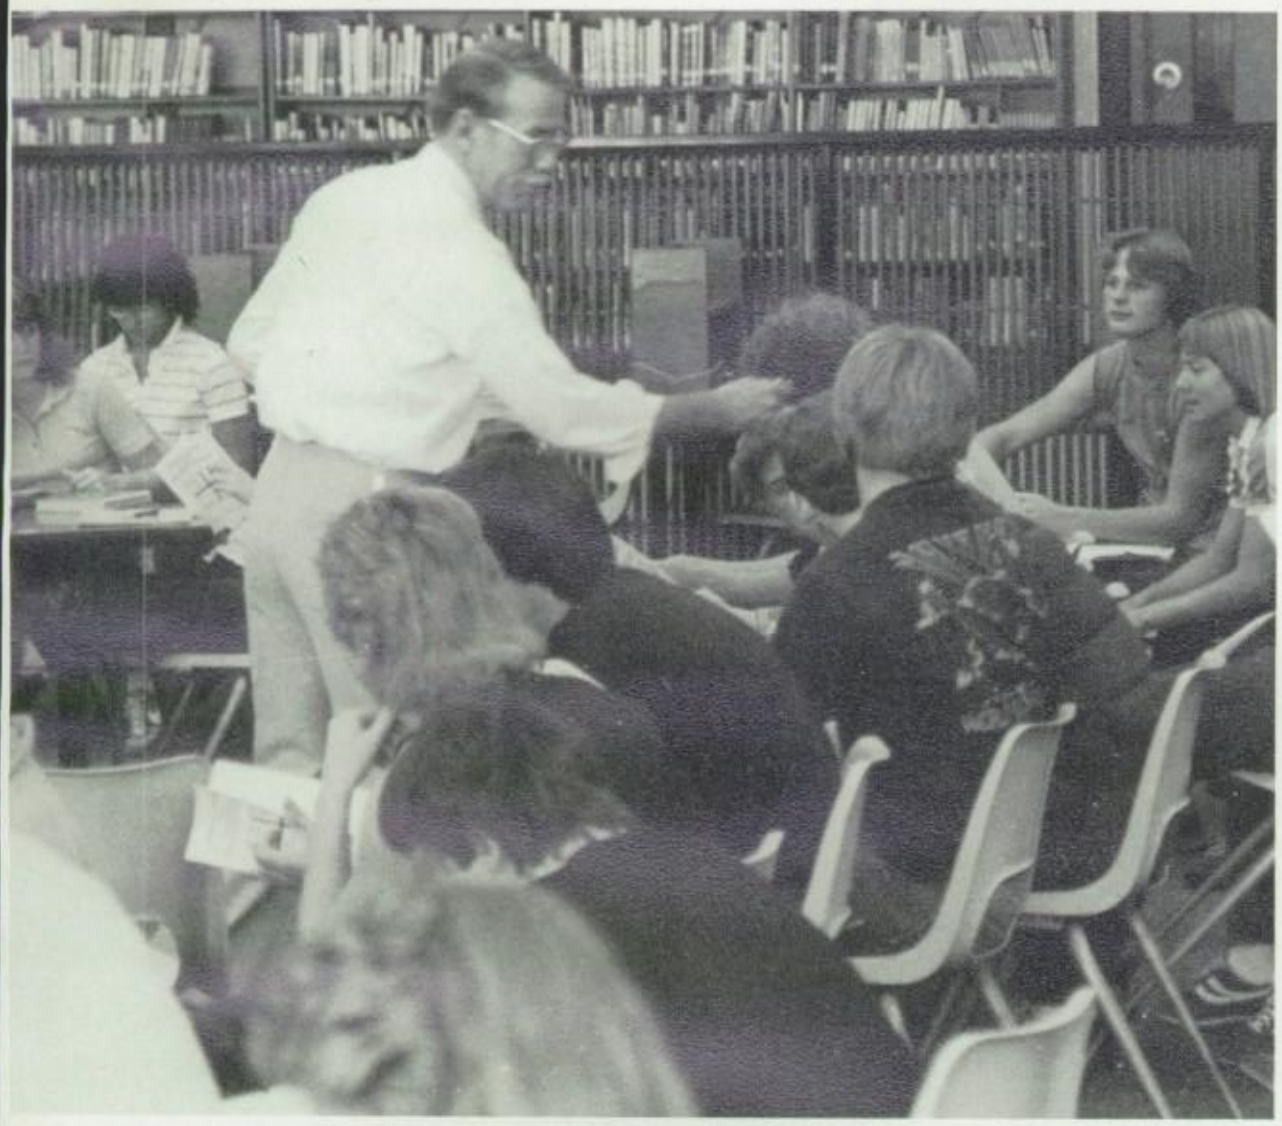
Mixing pleasure with work, students and faculty stirred up a lot of fun by doing many different things during summer vacation.

A portion of yearbook staff attended Yearbook West at Utah State in Logan, Utah, August 6-10.

A variety of ingredients, including a cookout, a dance, and competitions, made up the week's activities. Out of the 24 awards for which they were eligible, Skyline won 11, including the team effort in theme delevopment. Taking their portion of awards, Skyline topped all of the other 28 schools.

For the second year in a row, American and German students blended together in an exchange program this past year.

German students got a taste of America first when 14 of them came to Idaho during April. They attended classes for a month, then, to get a taste of eastern Idaho, they mixed their schooling with trips to various points of interest.



Tossing out his ideas about pride and spirit to the students is the new principal Mr. Gourley.

Mixing work with fun, Yearbook West participants take time-out from their workshop sessions for a volleyball tournament.

Booster Club stirs up some pride while on Booster Float during the July 4 parade.

Mrs. Olga Rippel, Skyline's German teacher, went with the American group, which was a concoction of 12 students from Skyline and two from Idaho Falls. They were in Germany from June 6 to July 4. They blended tours in Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Austria, Italy, and West Germany in with their schooling.

Skyline students are beginning a new year with a new principal, Lewis Gourley. Having had four children go through Skyline, Mr. Gourley has a lot of pride in the school. He spent the past summer getting the ingredients together for his new experience. At the beginning of the school year, Mr. Gourley mingled with each class in mini seminars where he cooked up some pride and respect. He also boiled with enthusiasm with the students during the first assembly where a lot of pride bubbled up.

Thousands of spectators, baked by the sun, lined the route to observe the 4th of July parade. The entrees included Teddy Bears, which took second in drill team; Booster Club's float; and other class and club cars, trucks, and floats.

Five varsity debators mixed with their peers from across the country at various debate camps during the summer.

A concoction of fourteen students went to Business Week in Boise during June. They were stuffed full of ideas during the week of activities.

When the time for sleeping in and staying out all night was over, Skyline students started getting into the blend of things and sophomores prepared themselves for a new school and new teachers.

But September 4 was a fresh start for all the students — not just the sophomores — and faculty, because they were getting a new principal, Lewis J. Gourley.

Looking at the school, it seemed as if nothing physical had changed, but inside the attitudes were changing. Gourley was promoting new spirit and pride in the school and telling students to not quit, but to be the best they could be.

Students were also finding that the rules about attendance were stricter. For instance, instead of being able to miss 14 days a semester, they were allowed only nine. This meant that more students would be going to class more regularly and would also be taking school more seriously.

Many students showed up at the first assembly of the year, a pep rally prior to the football game against Minico.

Excitement was super-abundant among the students and faculty when they crowded into the gym on skit morning. Students performed a smorgasboard of skits and talent that delighted the appetites of those in attendance.

Sophomores started skit morning with their flavory show. Packed with talented performances, they took third place. Their theme was "Grizzlies' Greatest." Juniors concocted a dazzling show filled with memorable acts which took second place. But the most entertaining entree' was the seniors' sizzling show. Their theme was "Wizard of Griz" and it included skits like "Tiger Busters" and "Strecthkins." Their hot talent won them first place.

Master of Ceremonies for the skit assembly was Ron Perrenoud. Perrenoud added a touch of spice by using his witty humor between each class' show.

After the skits were over he also announced the 1984-'85 homecoming royalty. First, Julie Hobbs was announced second attendant, Monica Andrus, first attendant; then Lisa Just was crowned Duchess. For the juniors, Jennifer Hoover was named second attendant; Shanna Stevens, first attendant; and Tammy McNew was crowned Junior Princess. From the Senior Class, Kim Ball made third attendant; Jennifer Crapo, second attendant; Crisite Cook, first runner-up; and Robin Crose was announced as the Homecoming Queen for 1984.

Frosty parade

Frilly floats and gorgeous royalty wound through the downtown business area on a blustery afternoon.

Many special guests, including Miss Idaho Falls, were in the parade.

Representing many hours of work and preparation, the Juniors offered an array of colors and excitement on their '84 float.

Adding to the scene of excellence, the Skyline Teddy Bears march in their true parade fashion.

Homecoming royalty Lisa Just, Tammy McNew, and Robin Crose ride in a windy parade.

School spirit was pipin' hot but the weather was cold and windy when the annual homecoming parade began.

Breaking from the traditional route, the parade wound its way around two blocks of the downtown business area. In past years, the route had been on the west side of town, from Rhinehart Park down Grandview and Skyline drives to the school.

About 13 entries combined in a colorful array of plastic and crepe paper as the various groups attempted to portray the theme, "There's No Stopping Us."

In the class float competition, sophomores took first, seniors came in second, and juniors were in last place.

Grand Marshall this year was Jerry Shively, the vocal music instructor at Skyline for the 17 years previous to last year, when he accepted the position as District 91's music supervisor.

Along with the dazzling floats from the students, Boosters decorated a car with bears and colorful paper.

Cheerleaders and friends had their spirits flying high at the parade on a chilly afternoon.

Taking first place in float competition, sophomores decorated this unique float entre'.

The seniors' float represented the theme, "There's No Stopping Us" to a "T."

Among the many clubs and organizations that participated in the parade, DECA was a fine example of school pride.

Gala time

The right music, an elegant atmosphere, formal dress, and the perfect date created the special night at homecoming dance.

Music and good times were just the right ingredients for the students at Skyline. The bitter loss at Friday night's game to the I.F. Tigers smothered the spirits of everyone. But the homecoming dance, sponsored by Girls' and Boys' Federations, was what the students needed to boost their spirits.

The dance was traditionally formal, with colors being blue, white, and silver. Savoury refreshments were cake and punch. Diamond Sound served up a variety of recorded music.

Dress for the dance was formal, so most of the girls appeared in long dresses or formals, and the guys wore tuxedos or suits.

During intermission, it was announced that seniors won first place, sophomores took second, and juniors finished in third in the hot sweepstakes competition.

Combo

Students and teachers enjoyed a fun-filled week combined of Homecoming and Spirit Week.

A treat for students this year was a combination of homecoming and spirit week.

At a pre-spirit week function Skyline and I.F. supporters purchased sparkling cases of soft drinks in an all day coke-a-thon, sponsored by the local mall and bottling company.

Just like a turkey being stuffed at Thanksgiving the classes had unsavory competitions during the station wagon stuff. Lewis Gourley, principal, judged the competition, with the sophomores having a cool 35, the juniors a bulging 36, and the seniors with a hot 37.

After a taste of the stationwagon stuff the juniors whipped the seniors in the tug-of-war, leaving the sophomores choking in the dust.

Also during this week students showed pride by dressing up on "Jersey Day" which was Monday, "Dressing up" in I.F. nerds, Halloween, and camouflage on Tuesday, followed by "Painter Day and Blue and White Day" on Thursday and Friday.

Special

Tiger Busters were hungry for victory.

After the tug-of-war came the eat-the-tiger contest where classes gulped and choked on orange jello tigers. During this day we also had our skit assembly with seniors topping them all. But, sophomores won the decoration of the spirit wall with not and inch of space left.

Next, came the tricycle race where the sophomores pedaled their way to first, juniors were second and the seniors ate the dust in third.

During the game Friday night, it was announced that Skyline won the coke-

Harvest Ball was again girl's choice filled with lots of fun.

The dance was seasoned by Diamond Sound with the savory theme song, "The Closer You Get."

The colors for the dance were a concoction of orange, brown, and rust. Couples arrived in tangy western dress, but no grubbies were allowed.

A deluxe activity at the Harvest Ball was the quick service marriage booth, where couples could enjoy a short-order marriage.

A side-order of royalty was announced during intermission. It was a smorgasboard from all classes, not just seniors.

The sizzling Harvest Ball featured a scrumptious autumn and western affair.

Topped

Though the selection didn't change much, assemblies had a different flavor this year.

Following with school tradition, students stand during the singing of the school song at the end of an assembly.

Pep assemblies...musical assemblies...introduction assemblies...fashion shows...recognition assemblies...ski movies...election speeches.

Sounds like the same old menu as in past years.

But wait. A sizzling new flavor of spirit, participation, and attendance has been evident at assemblies this year.

Several students were asked what they thought cooked up this sweet aroma of support. One student said that more students seemed to care more about the school, and therefore came to assemblies in greater quantities. Not having as many class yells, cooking up greater participation from more students, smothering the school with signs, and serving up more and funnier skits were the reasons cited by another student.

The bubbling enthusiasm and spirit of the sophomores as they blended in with juniors and seniors was yet another reason given. This student explained that the sophomores seemed to relish having fun, "even if the joke's on them."

Almost all students tossed in the comment that the home brand style of spirit and enthusiasm which Principal Lewis Gourley brewed up was an in-house special.

As students feasted on this spirit, the gym has burst with enthusiastic crowds, faculty and students have bubbled with pride, and the result has left no sour taste in anyone's mouth.

Treats

A variety of afterschool activities helped add spice to the school year.

A smorgasboard of afterschool activities were shared by many students. Some students no doubt spent more time with friends during these afternoon and evening social events than they did on subjects during the regular school day. The range of these events was so vast that they're billed as afterschool fun or nightlife.

When students left school as the bell rang at 2:45 each afternoon, they participated in a variety of activities. Some simply went home to do their homework, watch their favorite soapies, go to work, work on a hobby,...or even waste a good hunk of time. Others prepared for the nightlife. Dances, parties, or dates were some of the activities that took place later at night.

Street dragging, playing videos, or going to a good movie were some of other activities that could eat up the evening hours.

Seniors added a brand new activity to this year's list. They started "tornadoes." A few underclassmen also indulged in this spring event. Not much was known about this routine as it was staged secretly.

Students will always remember all of these good times, parties, and the after-school fun. They provided a tasty break to the routine academic menu day after day.

December was filled with a variety of activities.

First of all we had the Ski Assembly, which was a concoction of a ski fashion show with an unsavory ski movie.

Next, was the home-style Christmas Assembly. Class competitions were held with the pipin' hot sophomores winning the sweet tree trimming and the unrefined singing competitions.

To top off the assembly Santa Claus arrived, with students portraying his 9 reindeer while songs were sung.

While tasting this the classes enjoyed singing a combination of Christmas carols.

Classes also held deluxe parties and many students exchanged a variety of gifts.

A smorgasboard of classrooms were also decorated bright.

Frosted

Senior Ball served up a winter wonderland with beautiful colors and decorations.

Senior Ball got off to a savory start at 9:30 p.m. on December 22. The theme for the dance was "Inspiration"and the decorations gave Christmas to everyone in attendance. The Student Center looked like a winter wonderland, with a red ceiling and white snowflakes and balloons. Christmas cookies and red holiday punch were served as refreshments. The music, provided by Diamond Sound, added the final touch to the festive mood of the dance.

Tantalizing

Spring activities were seasoned with appetizing fun.

The spring of 1985 had its ups and downs. It started with cold, rotten weather. After the snow finally melted in April, scrumptious activities became super-abundant. One of the first tangy activities was the Dan Clark Assembly. Dan Clark, a former football player, came and spoke to Skyline students and sang, "I'll Build You a Rainbow."

In April, the German students were visiting Idaho Falls. Foreign language students and the Germans shared their languages, cultures, and luscious foods at the International Dinner. Mayor Tom Campbell was the sizzling featured speaker. The Germans gave a deluxe performance, and the French Club garnished the evening's entertainment with a seasoned skit.

One of the most exciting spring activities was the Toga Dance. This savory stag dance was held on April 19, and was a smashing success. Skyline students used their creative imaginations in thinking up the best togas to wear. There were awards given for the best togas. The winners were Greg Copp, Reed Payne, and Shelli Landon.

Students in child development classes had a daycare school for children during fifth and sixth hours on Mondays , Wednesdays, and Fridays. The student body also enjoyed going out and sitting on the lawn at lunch, hoping to get fried. As usual, riding motorcycles was very popular in the nice spring weather.

Sweet Tart

Girls were all wrapped up in deciding what guy to take to the dance.

This year the cheerleaders sponsored an old-fashioned Girl's Choice Valentine's Dance. The decorations were a smorgasboard of pink, red, and white, in an all out attempt to make it look like a place for romance. Music was provided by Diamond Sound and the refreshments were punch and cookies.

During intermission the royalty was announced. Winning for the Sophomore Class were Rebecca Ricks and Steven Breiter; for the juniors, Sarah Liljenquist and David Hansel; and for the seniors, Jamie Tuel and John Liljenquist.

A buffet of college information was presented to students by various college representatives. Students also devoured information by jobshadowing people at work or listening to guests in the classroom.

Due to the unsavory 90 pecent attendance policy, this year students were not able to have a college day but instead were treated to a college night held at Eagle Rock Junior High School.

A meeting on financial aid was held at Idaho Falls High School. It helped students understand what college would cost and the sources of financial assistance.

College representatives also visited the school to give interested students information about their respective institutions.

Recipe

Sophomores whipped up a recipe of good times and used it to give the school a real treat.

Over 100 couples indulged in good times as the sophomores sponsored their annual Sophomore Hop. As the date as March 16 (the day before St. Patrick's Day), the colors were green and white.

The theme song was "High on You," and the music was provided by Diamond Sound. As was the case last Rocking out at victory dances, after football games, was a favorite of most of the students.

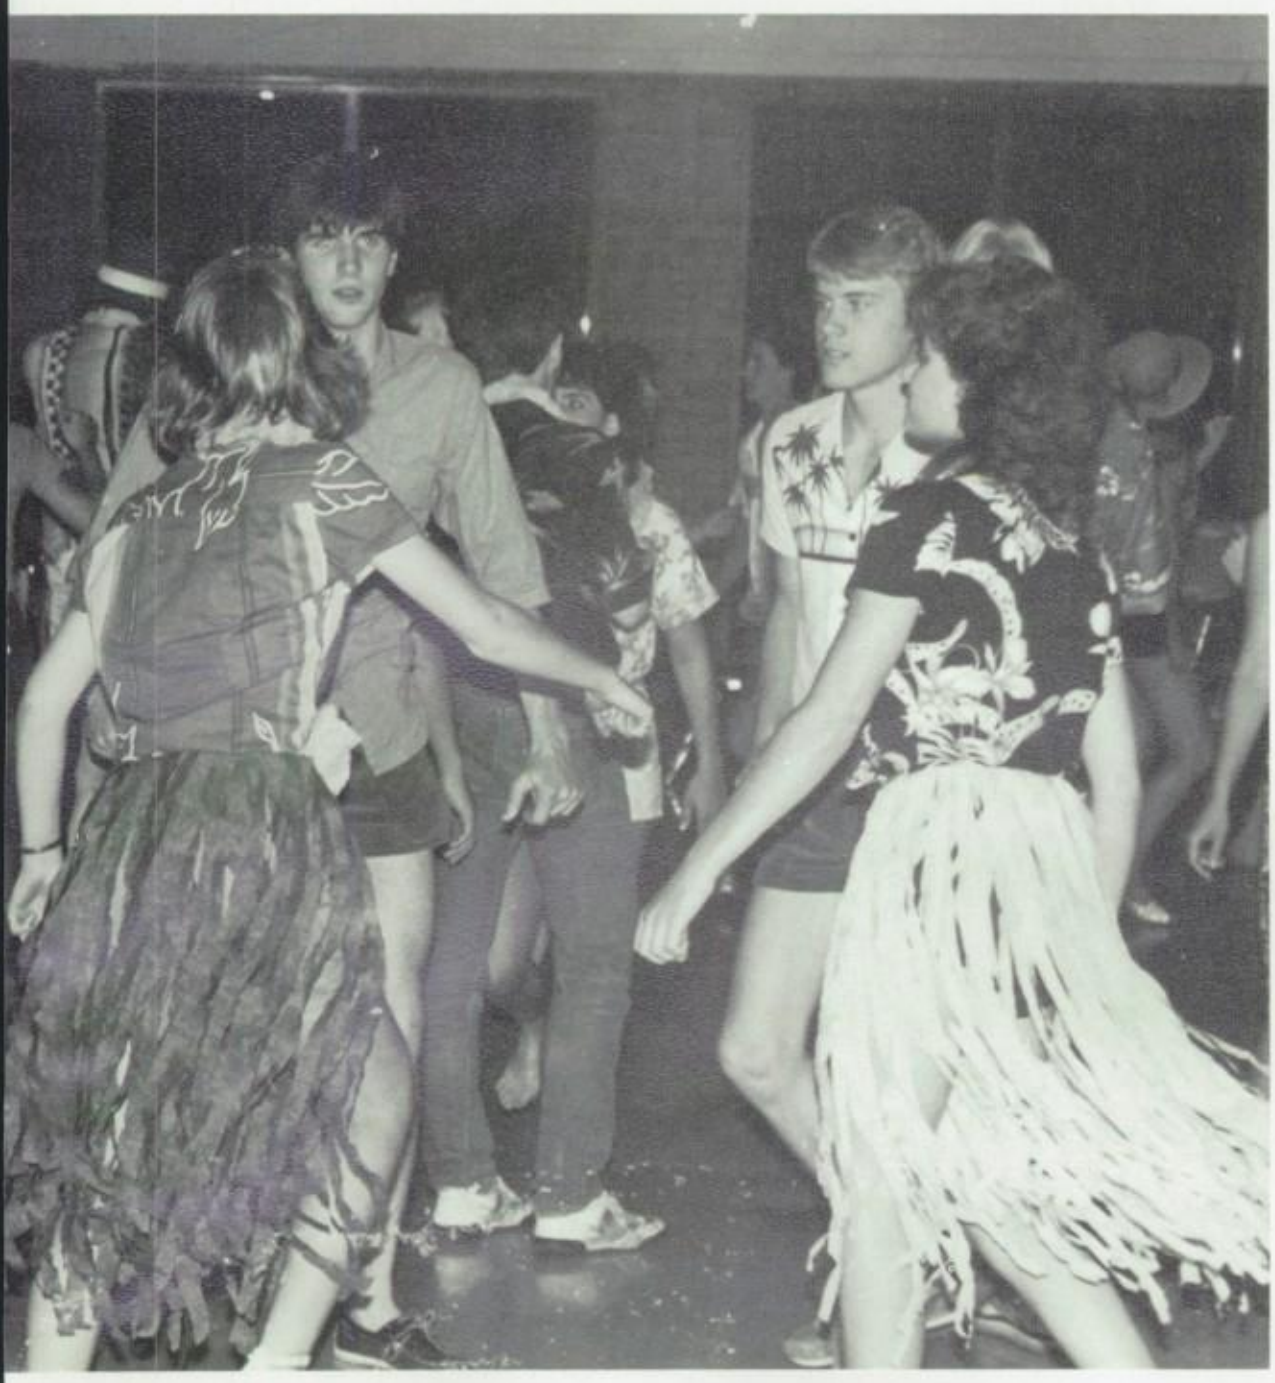
Many different types of dances were eld throughout this year. In fact, every nonth there was a dance to which tudents could look forward. These ances were sponsored by different roups and clubs and most of them ad good turn outs.

Along with the traditional dances, uch as the Senior Ball, this year was lled with new and different ideas. here was a 50's dance sponsored by ne boosters, a Toga dance sponsored y the Teds, a Hawaiian dance sponored by the Mat Maids, and all of the ictory dances after the football games. Added to all of these dances there were the Tri-School dances for all the students around.



Many of those in attendance at the Hawaiian Dance wore shorts or grass skirts.

Top Choice

In a random sampling of one-third of the students, they selected favorite entree's in a variety of fields.

What are the favorite tastes of Skyline students? A survey conducted of approximately 350 students revealed their top selections. A total of 6,624 responses were tallied and showed that 551 different choices were made in the sampling.

The survey asked for the preference in music, dating, shoes, cars, movies, TV shows, animals, and clothes. Most of the questions asked respondents to select from a list, while others were open-ended and allowed students to write in their own choices.

After school jobs, with 370 tallies, favorite books, with 368; and favorite movies, with 365, had the most responses. When asked whether they liked the new fluorescent accents in clothing, 274 answered "no" and 75 said "yes." This was the biggest margin of victory. Following up for most votes was Beverly Hills Cop, with 264 marks for best movie; and Alabama, which received 226 responses as the top country music group. Favorite actress had the fewest answers, 178.

test was in the hard rock music area, where Sammy Hagar won by a single vote over Def Leopard, 80 to 79. In another tight contest, romance books (97), won by a margin of 9 votes over adventure books (88).

Finally, to show the diversity of the selections given in the survey, favorite actor and top movies each had 69 different entree's, most liked television program listed 61 shows, and favorite actress had 51 names.

Most of the surveys were answered completely and in what appeared to be an honest manner, although some were not. One or two respondents said the survey was stupid, dumb, and a waste of time. Some respondents also challenged the grouping of the musical entries into a particular category. On the other hand, when asked to list their favorite performer, this same segment of students placed the musicians in several different groups.

The top three choices in each category can be found on these two pages. In some races, the contests were close, with only a single vote between several placings (for instance, one vote between second and third, third and fourth all the way down to one vote between 68th and 69th). For this reason, only the top three in each division are listed.

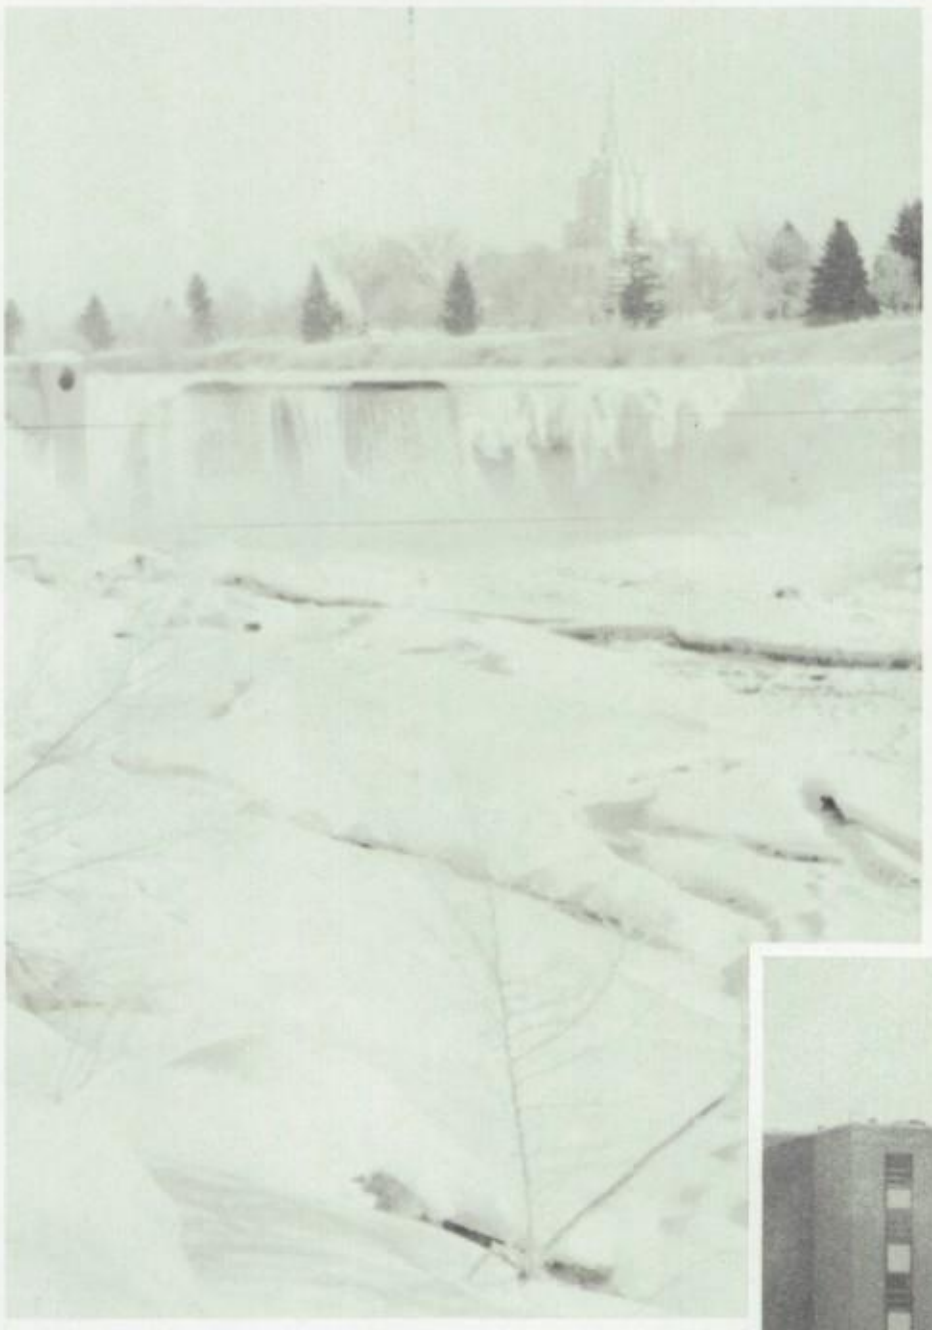
Hot & cold

A short-order of elections took place with cut-to-order cold weather arriving shortly afterward.

A smorgasboard of events took place at the elections in November. The menu included four issues. Voters decided not to reject the sales tax on food purchases, not to give the control of the Water Resource Board to the Governor, and not to allow State Representatives to represent districts which cross the county lines. But the Hospital County Board was kept alive and not dissolved.

Ronald Reagan will be the President of the United States for an additional four years with George Bush remaining as the Vice-President.



The prowling Skyline Mascot - the Grizzly bear - and his habitat were the main topics of conservation for the past two summers.

Due to the extremely cold weather, school was let out for a few extra days.

Trying to dissolve the hospitals and make one facility was a heated topic in Idaho Falls.

Richard Stallings won the right to fill the congressional seat for the Second Congressional District. Stallings defeated George Hansen by a slim 64 votes. Hansen then did not step down quietly, but called for a recount and thought of every way to try and get back in. While investigations were still going on, Richard Stallings was sworn in as the representative.

During the summer, many inconsiderate people were shooting the grizzly bear. The park rangers were shooting them or killing them, believing they were in the people's way. The question debated was, "Who was here first, the Grizzly or the people?"

The weather this year was worse than it was last year. More snow fell and the temperature dropped to 38 degrees below zero. Due to the cold weather school was closed for four days.

Finally, the hospital controversy was decided. It was decided that there should be one regional hospital serving the area. But the question of what to do with the Parkview and Riverview facilities has not been resolved.

Winning with a slim margin of votes in a hotly contested election is Richard Stallings.

Foreign students get a taste of American cultures.

Mixing foreign cultures with American experiences, six students left their native lands to attend Skyline this year.

A combination of four students are participating in the foreign exchange program, one is here for fun-filled studying and the other one is here after he escaped from Poland with his family.

Heike Glantz comes from Karisrhe, a city in West Germany and is here getting a taste of America while "studying on her own." She will finish this year and graduate with the class of '85 from Skyline. She came here in 1980 and enjoyed it so much that she decided to come back and finish school.

Yuuka Yoshioka is from Hiroshima, Japan. The exchange program gives her a blending of study and culture exchange. Yuuka says there are many differences here such as the guys, and school dress (such as not wearing uniforms and being able to wear jewelry). Her favorite classes in Japan are Japanese grammar and literature.

Tony Zygaldo previously lived in Poland but fled the country with his family after tasting the communist take over. Tony enjoys playing this guitar and eating at Taco Time or McDonalds. He says southeastern Idaho was cut to order for his family.

Barbara Kuehnel is a guest from Marklohel, in West Germany. Barbara will be here until July when she will return home. Barbara states that going to school here is filled with differences-like daily assignments being handed in, open book tests, and dressing nice.

Coming from Jyvaskyla, Finland is Anne Korhonen. Anne is now a senior and will attend school until the end of the school year. Anne relishes the weather here and doesn't favor going back to Finland. She also fills her speech with fluent English in communicating with the students and teachers.

A Swedish spice is added by Anita Jorgensen, an exchange student from Hassleholm. Anita enjoys the homemade pride and activities in our school. She also thinks the students here are boisterous and talk too much-sometimes even to perfect strangers.

Here studying on her own is Heike Glantz from Karisrlre, West Germany posing with her brother Roland.

Trigonometry

I'm now in trigonometry,
on the ladder of success.
But if the truth were to be known,
I really must confess,
That my trigometric know how is really quite a mess.
First you take the cosine,
The simple measure of a side.
But then things get a little harder and I soon find,
I'm not really sure how to add,
subtract, or multivide(?)
I sit next to a wizard,
a man with ALL the answers in his head.
He's always finished with the assignment
before I get it read.
Ya know, for some strange, unknown reason,
I wish that one of us was dead.
No matter how well my words rhyme,
or how I state my plea,
No matter how clever I may become in the craft of poetry,
It will never get me very far in this mathmatic drudgery.

Behind Closed Doors

Behind closed doors a shadow lurks, something as of yet, unseen.
It knows the secrets of heart and soul,
storing them away,
for another time, another place, another dream, another love...
than has passed this way, today.
Behind closed doors a memory hides,
Its saddening glance dimmed, waiting and hoping for a time not yet here.
Behind closed doors a person is held,
waiting for a key,
to another life, with another love,
across another sea.
Behind closed doors everyone hides
until at last set free,
by someone they trust to open the door,
and hold their only key.

Graduation Day

Today the class of 1985
will graduate from Skyline High.
The last twelve years we have shared many friends and foes.
We have waited and worked for this day to come.

As we gather on the stage
we think of the things we've done, and not yet accomplished.
We cry as we leave our school,
teachers and friends behind.

Many of our friends didn't make it to grad.
Mike Price, Chad Williams, and others
dear to our hearts.
We regret leaving,
because we now must grow-up.
Yet most of the teachers, and even the school will remember us.
Because we are the Class of '85', and we will stay alive with Skyline High.

"Searching and Searching"

I've been chasing my new dreams...
While old ones just faded away...
And I find them becoming more clear...
Than in my yester years...
I've seen many things old and new...
But in each dream it is different...
I've searched for so many years...
But forgot what I was searching for...
I've been reaching for the stars...
But I could never reach that far...
I've seen so many heart aches...
In my search for happiness...
I've leaned on sturdy pillars...
But now they've crumbled...
But now I've found what I've been searching for...
And I have been searching for so long...
And they have passed by me...
Only now I've found the right door to open...
But must have lost the key...
And now there's nothing more to say...
Because I have my dreams...
And I didn't lose the way...
Gone are the old dreams...
And in come new ones...
So I lay me down to sleep...
And dream of what I've found...
Searching and searching...
To find that my dreams are not lost...

This year's Junior Prom was a scrambling of previous traditions. Junior Class officers decided that instead of having boys' choice or girls' choice, they would make it "either" choice. In addition, they suggested that the couples split the cost of the evening.

The dance, held on April 13, was semi-formal and the music was provided by Music Survival. The theme was "Changes" and the colors were pink, blue, and white. No royalty was selected.

Anthony's Limousine Service held a drawing for a limousine, complete with a chaffeur, to be used the night of the dance. The lucky winners were Mike Willisch and his date, Jamie Tuel. The limousine took them to dinner and then to the dance in real style.

The week of April 22-26, was the time for student body elections. After scrambling the week before to obtain signatures for petitions to run for office, students participated in spicy campaigning the first three days of the week. Primaries were held on Tues., April 23, for the offices of student body president and vice-president, because there were more than two tangy candidates for these positions.

The election assembly was held on Thurs., April 25. At this appetizing event, Skyline students were given a feast of election speeches and debates by the candidates, and a savory routine by the cheerqueen candidate. The student body voted throughout the rest of the school day for pipin' hot officers for the 1985-1986 school year.

The results of the elections were announced at the Inauguration Assembly on Fri., April 26. The palatable winners were Andy Begely, president; Nathan Dustin, vice-president; Tami McNew, secretary; Lorette Green, historian; Barbie Gray, cheerqueen; Mike Krsul, public relations director; Michelle Carey, business manager; and Rudy Lewis and Scott Clark, school board representatives.

Tart and tangy, cool and hot, everything's in nothing's not.

This year's fashion scene was one of comfort and style. Some students were turning to fashions of rock stars, while others were turning to styles that fit their life and the way they lived.

The styles were also more relaxed; students could get away with almost anything. Most of the students around school wore pants, but even those varied from long lengths to cropped; from pants that had many pockets and zippers to those that had none. The shirts worn also varied in styles and the colors ranged from pastels to

A taste of blue

What does it take to cook up these two ingredients?

Some yearbook staffers and Grizzly mascots put their heads together and stirred up a recipe for demonstrating spirit and pride. Two variations of the final result are represented on these two pages. The recipe follows:

1 portion of distinguishing head apparel (a spirit hat, blue-streaked hair, or blue and white ribbons)

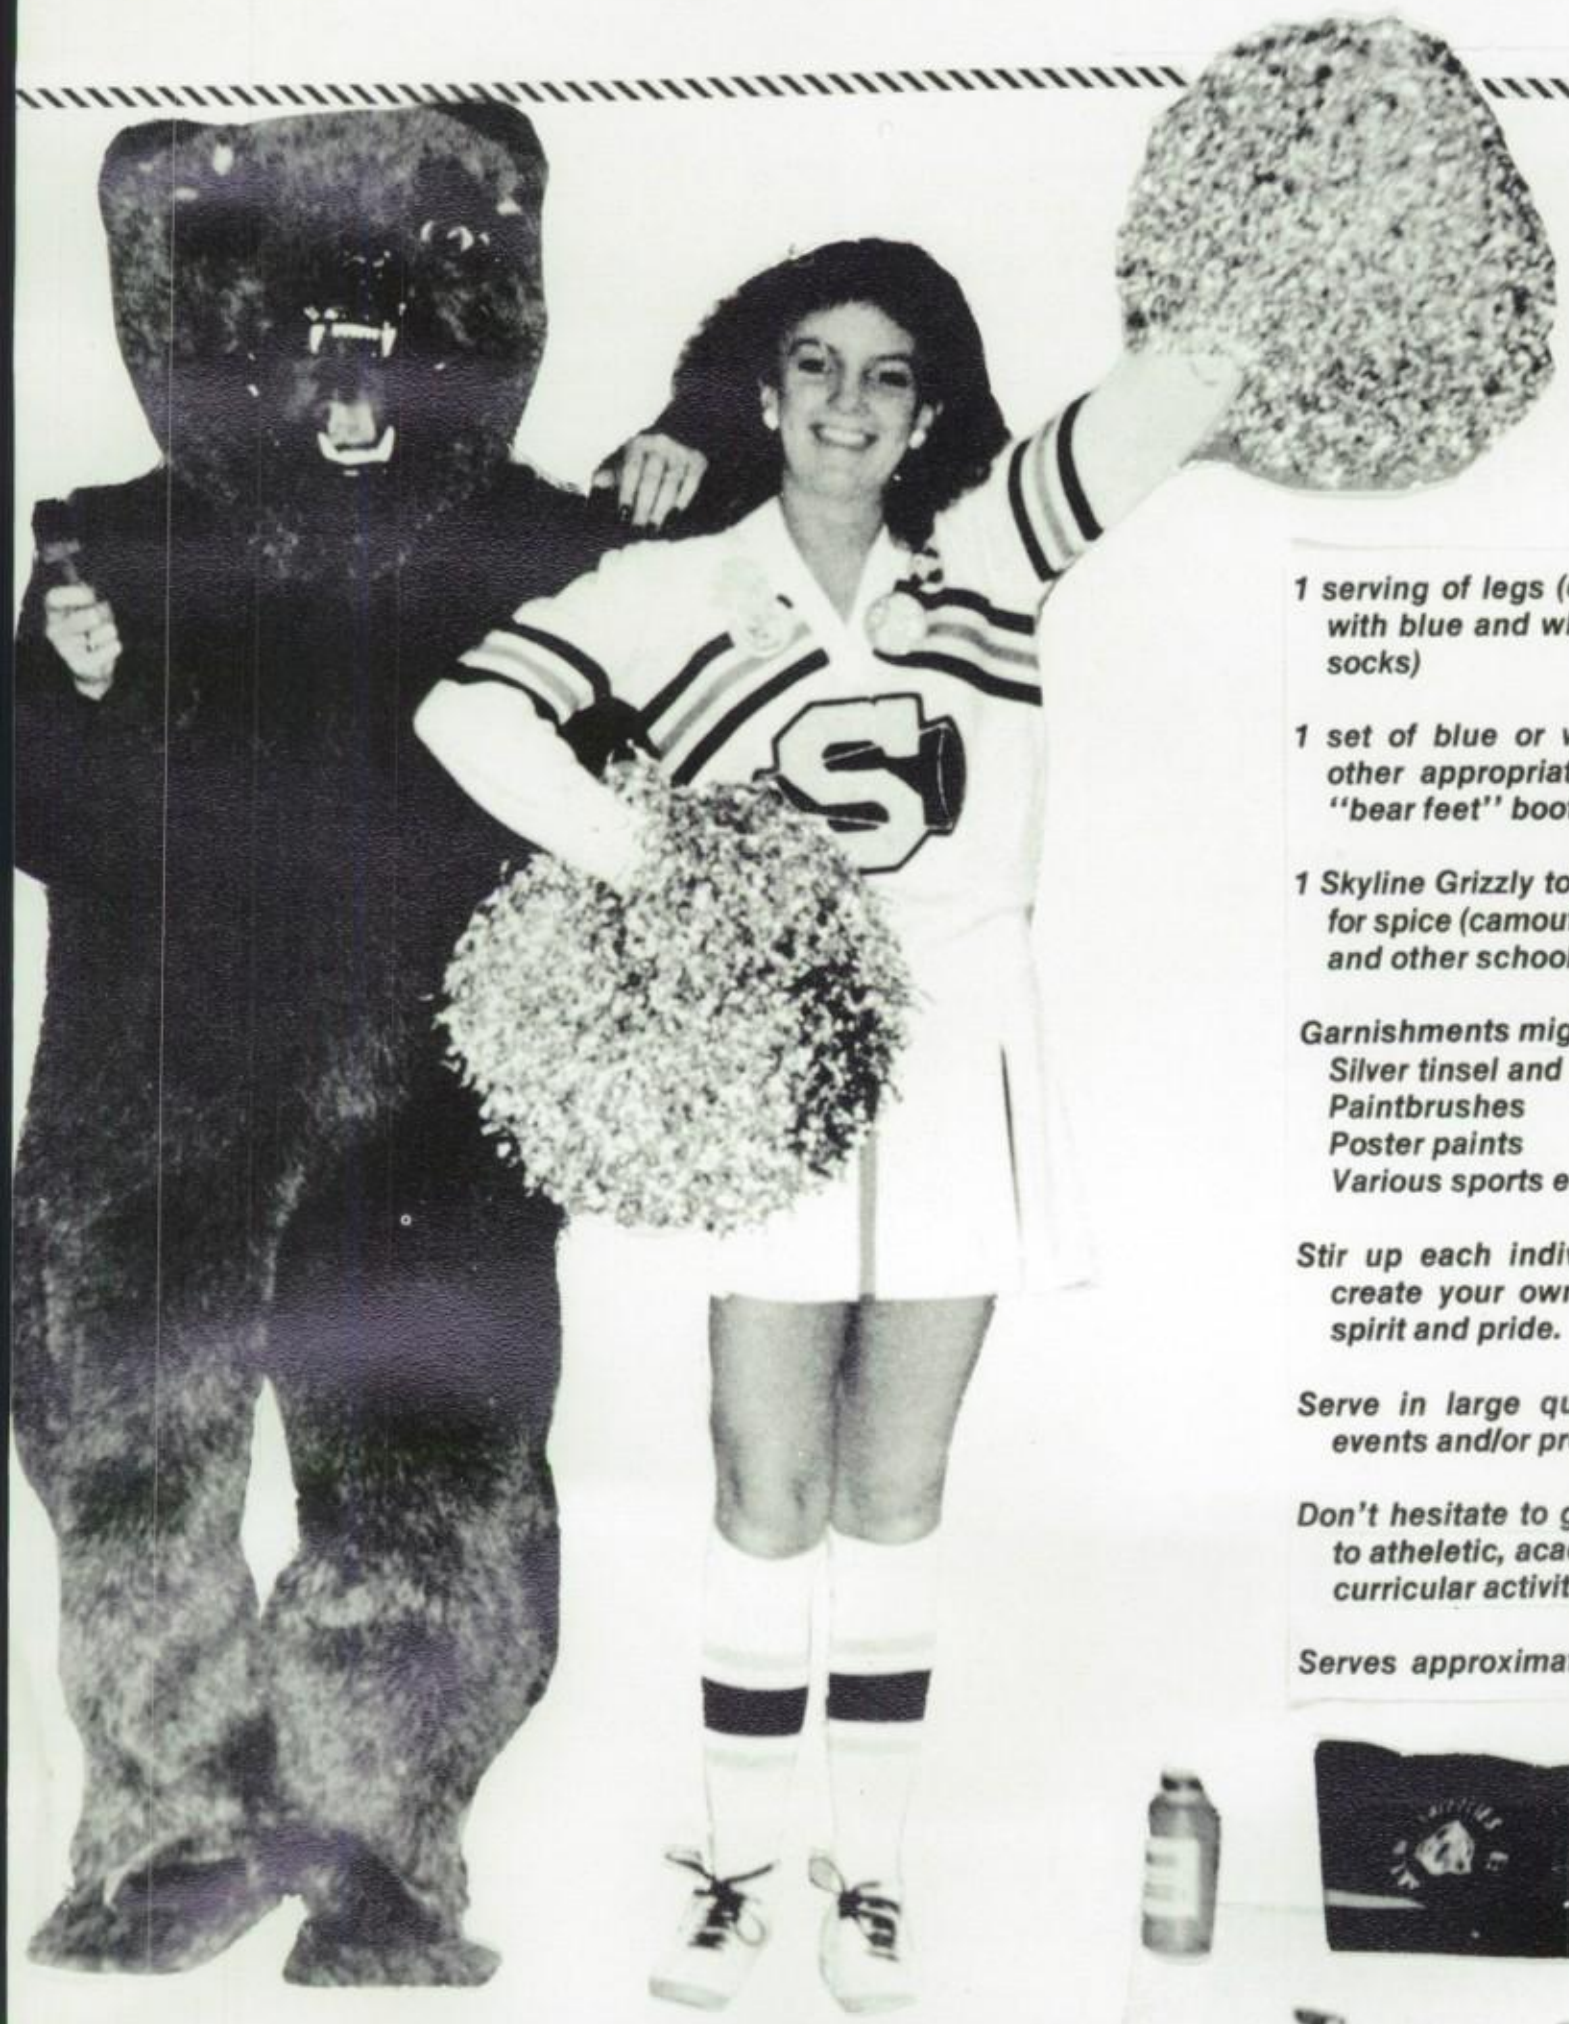
1 pair of sunglasses (either punky or polarized and preferably tinted blue)

1 generous portion of a blue and white shirt or coat (this might be a bulky Skyline letter jacket complete with a blue and white "S," which is relished with gold medals to further identify a Griz. A variety of shirts accented in blue lettering, such as the "Tiger Buster" or stripe-sleeved spirit uniforms, could be substituted here. A Grizzly booster jacket could also add a new taste.)

A sprinkling of spirit buttons (this helps to accent the final appearance)

1 pair of gym shorts or a short, pleated skirt (shorts to be worn only when participating in athletics or sunbathing)

spirit & pride



1 serving of legs (either bare or covered with blue and white-striped calf-length socks)

1 set of blue or white tennis shoes or other appropriate foot wear (such as "bear feet" boots)

1 Skyline Grizzly tote bag might be added for spice (camouflaged inside are books and other school supplies)

Garnishments might include:
Silver tinsel and blue plastic pom-poms
Paintbrushes
Poster paints
Various sports equipment

Stir up each individual concoction and create your own individual serving of spirit and pride.

Serve in large quantities at all school events and/or promotions.

Don't hesitate to give generous portions to atheletic, academic, and other extra-curricular activities.

Serves approximately 1000 per mixture.

Tues., May 21, 1985 was the Senior Sneak. For the traditional senior activity, the Class of 1985 traveled to Utah for their Lagoon trip. It was a beautiful spring day, full of sunshine and fun.

While at Lagoon, seniors participated in scrumptious activities. They rode sizzling rides such as Colossus, Jet Star 2, Mouse, and Tidal Wave. Seniors also took tasty tours through Pioneer Village, and played miniature golf. The day's activities were also spiced with paddles around the little lake, and tangy games for prizes of teddy bears and other stuffed animals. Of course many people went through the chilling haunted house and drove the pipin' hot bumper cars.

Originally, four buses were going to be taken down to Lagoon, but so many Skyline seniors were interested in going that they petitioned for another bus. They received it, and did not have to share one with Idaho Falls High School.

Salty

Seniors reminisced their past three years at the the Senior Sob Assembly.

Seniors gathered in the gym to produce their SOB, traditionally the last assembly of the year.

After the seniors walked in as their names were read, the fun began. Master of Ceremonies, Dirck Tromp, announced the theme song, "The First Step," sung by a senior double sextet. They were accompanied by Crystal Taylor. Announcers Tesha Hoover and Kip Wilkins then introduced the sophomore year. "Love Affair" was sung by Jeff Burtenshaw, Ellyn Owens, Jamie Tuel, Jennifer Crapo, Lisa Keating, Scott Taylor, Teena Johnston, Lisa Andrus, Jennifer Rigby, and Marilyn Hart. Next on the menu was a delicious skit called "JB's Candy Store" played by various unsuspecting seniors. Then the Sophomore Hop Theme song, "You and I," was sung by Cory McClellan and Anne Christopherson, accompanied by Julie Gosswiller. Finishing up their sophomore year, and each of the other two years' portions of the show, was a slide presentation.

Morgan Bates and Heather Macaulay introduced the seniors' junior year. Starting off with a big bang were the 1983-84 Junior Teds with their "Camouflage Rountine."Next was "Airplane '85" played by Kip Wilkins, Danny Zentner, Jeff Burtenshaw, Michelle DeGraw, Debbie Newman, Timonie Hodd, Jerry Clifford, Steffani DeMott, Graduation was loaded with a smorgasboard of fun and memories of the past three years.

The Class of 1985 presented the home-style Baccalaureate which took place on June 2, at 4:30 p.m.

Concert choir sang two devouring songs called "Hallelujah" and "Silver Wings" after which Dirck Tromp gave the scripture reading. Twelve seniors then sang the appetizing theme song for graduation "The First Step." David Leroy, Idaho Lt. Governor, then addressed the graduating seniors with a tantalizing speech.

A final dish of Commencement excercises then took place on June 4, at 8 p.m. Two hundred and fifty seniors participated in this event.

Chamber Choir started off the evening singing a blended combination of "A Gaelic Blessing," and "No Man is an Island." Jeff Burtenshaw, Jennifer Crapo, and Lauren McClure then presented their savory valedictory addresses. School District 91 Superintendent, Jerry Jacobson gave some savory comments; Morgan Bates, Senior Class President gave the frosted class history; and Principal Lewis J. Gourley put on the final garnishments. Majorie Miller and Leonard Newby of the School Board then awarded the diplomas to the Skyline-brewed seniors. The Class of '85 then formed the "SHS" and sang the peppery school song before filing out to turn in their caps and gowns and receive their much-awaited diplomas.

A smorgasboard of solemnity was shown as the seniors marched in for Baccalaureate.

Students got together to have their last dance of the year and reflect on past times.

This year's menu was filled with dances, but the best was saved for last. This special entree was the Commencement Dance, which was sponsored by Boys' and Girls' Federations. The gala affair was held on Fri., May 31, for the 151 couples who attended.

The semi-formal affair was held at the Elks' Lodge and Crossbow provided the live music. Colors were pink and silver. The theme song, "Forever Young" was sung by Julie Gosswiller during intermission. Also on the program was a slide show of the seniors when they were infants.

Savory

Groups from bands, choirs, and drama performed in a variety of concerts and stage performances.

A feast of concerts and plays were presented during the school year.

"Don't just be good, be great!" was a statement often used by Principal Lewis Gourley to tell the various groups "Good Luck."

The choir, under the direction of Steve Newton, sang their way through the season, performing many different times. Both Chamber and Concert choirs sang their way to a #1 rating in their competition. They also performed two concerts and sang before numerous community groups.

Gourmet

Hungry for its first victory, the varsity team feasted on Minico and Nampa.

The start of the 1984 football season was but a locked door for the varsity team, which struggled to get through it. But when all was thought lost, pride came through with the key to success.

Two lost games to A-1 powerhouse, Capital, 13-16, and defending A-2 champs Madison, 7-22, were all the team could take.

By the time the confrontation with Minico came upon the school, the team was ready to burst with an overpowering pride which the opposition could not overcome. A feast for the team was just what the doctor ordered and that is exactly what the mighty Griz did. That victory brought a spirit to the school that lasted throughout the remainder of the season.

Although the next pair of games were eaten up by more powerful teams, the Nampa "squeeze," 7-6, brought once again that Grizzly spirit so welcomed by the Skyline student body yet feared by the teams confronting the power of the "Blue."

Chilled

Posters and banners filled the halls as students gathered in the gym for a pep assembly.

When the yearly confrontation with cross-town rival Idaho Falls came upon the team, they were ready for a much needed win, but in the end couldn't pull it off.

Skyline came into the game with a record of 1 win and 5 losses, but that didn't seem to matter in a game of pride vs. power, and the Griz put their losses behind them.

The Grizzlies led by a slim one-point margin during most of the game, but couldn't hold on through the fourth quarter, losing to the Tigers 7-21.

On the morning of October 26, the countdown to a Grizzly victory began with a high-spirited pep assembly and a school filled with posters and banners. Due to the fact that the Indians had very little luck in pushing themselves into the winner's bracker, a victory for Pocatello was needed, and they had high hopes for a win this night. Their hopes were dashed, though, as Skyline took the game, 21-6.

One week after the victory over Poky at Ravsten Stadium, the team took a trip across town to Stinger Stadium to take on the strong offense of the Bonneville Bees. A win for the Griz seemed most evident as the team went into the fourth quarter with a 24-21 lead, but the Bees turned a 29-yard pass into a winning touchdown, going on to win the contest 24-28.

Devour

Sophomores defeated all but one opponent in "best ever" season for Skyline rookies.

Loaded with a super-abundance of talent, Skyline's sophomores cooked up the best season in the school's history.

In the first game of the season, the Griz were foiled as they suffered their only defeat to Highland by a score of 0-12.

Then the sophs. stoked up their fire and came back for a hot win of 30-6 over Madison. After this exciting victory, the team whipped through the remainder of the season without suffering a loss.

Blackfoot's Broncos put up a bitter fight, but the Griz served up yet another victory in the closest scoring of the season, 24-13.

Even the Idaho Falls Tigers got broiled as the Griz rolled over them for an 18-6 victory. Following this exciting win, the sophomores creamed the Bonneville Bees by a score of 32-0.

With these two intracounty victories, the sophomores ground out a home-style 7-1 season record.

Hungry

With a lot of simmered hope and determination varsity volleyball players planned to smear their opponents.

Varsity players set up for a season of volleyball fun. After tryouts and practices were over, Coach Donna Rosen chose the best players for the team.

Spirits rose high as the first ball flew over the net. Skinned knees and elbows resulted as the team made short order of the game and went on for their first win of the season. Five straight losses followed.

Hope spread over the hungry varsity players as they piled onto the bus with pounding hearts, bitterly hoping to win their first tournament in Blackfoot. Scorched by their loss, smoldering players, heaped with dismay, got ready for their next game. With a lot of simmered hope and determination, they planned to smear their opponents. As a result, peppered hope led the varsity team to their second victory.

But spirits fell with the loss in their next two games and also in the Wood River Tournament.

Tattered at the seams, thinking all hope was lost, varsity players surprised everyone with the win over Bonneville. Overall, the season record ended up at 4-18.

Volleyball promises to serve up a pipin' hot team next year.

Varsity players served up a great season. When things were looking down, they seemed to whip up one more win, which made the school spirit soar with pride.

A total of nine players made the team. Each individual player did her part, and they strived for excellence to make the season great. The little bit of old-fashioned touch they remembered from their junior varsity experience helped top off each game.

The games were close ones (13-15, 17-19, etc.) and the girls played hard and gave it all they had. They never let their victories or losses interfere with they way they played as the volleyball season came to a close.

Junior varsity players weren't going to let their opponents see the sweet side of them, but rather let them smolder in their losses and our victories.

Sizzling with excitement, new incoming sophomores entered the scene of volleyball fun, while some junior players came back for more action. Pipin' hot junior varsity volleyball players prepared for the season ahead. Spirits fell with the loss of their first game.

Knowing not all hopes were lost, the players came back with a fresh win over Twin Falls. Seared with the next two losses, they concentrated on winning their next game over Idaho Falls.

Peppered with the bitter loss to Minico, the JV's were determined to secure victory in the upcoming Bonneville game. Despite winning and still on shakey ground, the players lost the next two games with Twin Falls and Highland. With a glorious comeback, they went on to scorch Bonneville in the next game.

Heaped with disappointment, the team lost yet another set of games to Blackfoot and Minico. Determined to give it all they had, hungry players weren't going to let Pocatello and Idaho Falls see the sweet side of them. Instead, they let these two opponents smolder in their losses while Skyline gloried in two victories.

With a concoction of a won...lost... won...lost record, the JV's ended up with a 6-9 season record.

Sizzling

The team as a whole didn't fair too well, but individual runners burned up the courses.

Missing some of the essential ingredients this year, the 1984 cross country team tried to stir up some excitement for the sport.

Lacking enough girls to field a complete team in most of their meets, members instead relied on a concoction of boys plus a sprinkling of girls to compete.

It took a lot of practice, exercise, and determination to come out on top, and practice runs of five to seven miles a day were not unusual.

With the gourmet techniques of Coach Deloy Roberts, the team had a workout every night with hours on end of running, stretching, bending, and ropes. The coach molded the group into a team of determined runners.

Looking toward the state competition at our own course (Freeman Park) the team took five of their best to the qualifying round at home. Out of those five, only two - Colene Richert and Eric Roberts - made it to the state finals. Colene and Eric were also the team's top runners of the year.

Seared

High expectations were held for this year's varsity team.

The varsity boys' basketball players were predicted to be last in their conference this year. The players went out to prove the forecasters wrong.

After the cuts were made, practices were started. Coach Jim Lewis had high expectations for this year's team. The team consisted of 17 seasoned players, including a peppery sophomore, Rodney Hansen.

In the first game of the season with Rigby, the Griz came out on top with an appetizing score of 33-31. The Griz then had to face two unsavory losses, to Borah and Capital.

The Griz then decided to prepare to win. With winning on their minds, the team went out to face Madison and Rigby again. The Griz defeated Madison by a scrumptious score of 51-49 and towered over Rigby with a firey score of 46-38.

Still flying high from their wins over Madison and Rigby, the Griz weren't prepared for their next two games which seemed to fold up under them.

Sprouting with the will to defeat Blackfoot, the Griz went out on the court knowing who was going to be in the winner's circle. Skyline took Blackfoot with the greased score of 58-55.

The season ended with a simmering 8-12 win-loss record.

Varsity players prepared for disrtict with high hopes.

Varsity players started preparing for district by practicing from early in the morning til late at night. The Griz had only one thing on their minds and that was to whip over district and head for state.

Even though the players' plans were pan-fried, they still went out with a bang.

The first team to play against the Griz in district was the Bonneville Bees. After preparing for days, the Griz were ready to take on their challengers. The Bees defeated the Griz with a pungent score of 46-55, but Skyline still had high hopes of defeating Idaho Falls.

Coach Jim Lewis gave his tantilizing team one last hardy pep talk before they went out to face the Idaho Falls Tigers. Not knowing how the game would end, Skyline was proud to say they defeated the Idaho Falls Tigers, supposedly the number one team in Idaho Falls, by a flame-broiled score of 65-55.

After defeating Idaho Falls, Skyline then had to face Bonneville one last time. The game ended with a score of 65-67 in the Bees' favor.

The game with Highland was next in line. This game would decide if Skyline went to state or stayed at home. Unfortunately, Highland defeated Skyline by a tart score of 66-77.

Skyline didn't make it to state, but the Griz were back in their winning style again.

The season started out with a sour loss, but the Griz came back for a winning season.

As the basketball season began, players tried out for a starting position on the hot junior varsity team. After Coach Brock Taylor decided who was to be on his sizzling team, workouts began. The season started out with a sour loss to Rigby, but after a spicy pep talk, Skyline came back with an agreeable win over Borah.

"The people should know that these guys did well. We lost Rod Hansen to the varsity team, lost our starting center from last year, (Scott Brown), and various other players were sick, but we still found a way to win. They were a fun group to coach," stated Coach Taylor.

As the season progressed the team had a record of six consistent wins.

JV's finished in second place in the District 6 Tournament. They devoured I.f. twice, but lost to Bonneville twice. Their season ended up with a spicy 16-7 win-loss record.

Players seasoned with pride devoured the year with a 12-6 record.

Skyline's spicy Varsity Girls' Basketball Team started preparing for the season early in the fall. Coach Mike Rose had juicy plans for the season ahead.

Players seasoned with pride devoured their Salmon opponents at the first game of the season with a score of 47-39. The Griz then faced a salty loss to Madison.

Bonneville was one of the big games of the season. Skyline won by a super abundant margin of 27 points by a score of 60-33. The other big game was with Rigby, in which Skyline whipped out on top with a score of 57-35.

The Griz defeated the Idaho Falls Tigers in their first round with an over-easy score of 45-38. Skyline also went on to win their next two games - with Minico and Pocatello - resulting in a loaded score of 61-53 over Minico and 55-40 over Pocatello.

Varsity Girls' basketball palyers prepared for the toasted district tournament.

Preparing for district means a lot of hard work and dedication, but Coach Mike Rose and the varsity players were determined to breeze through district and go on to state.

After a concoction of boisterous pep talks, the girls were ready to face the Idaho Falls Tigers. The game seemed to take a bitter turn to the Tiger's favor, ending in a 46-53 score.

Determined not to let the Idaho Falls upset get in their way of winning, the Griz prepared for the meeting with the Bonneville Bees. The Griz went out knowing they'd devour the Bees, which resulted in the towering score of 52-27 in the Griz's favor.

Skyline went on to face a sour loss with Idaho Falls, ending with a tart score of 46-51.

The Griz had one more game left to play. If they won, they would go to state; but if they lost, it would put them in second place.

The game with Blackfoot started slow, but ended in the Skyline varsity players' favor. The Griz won by a score of 68-62, which took them to state.

The girls went 2-1 in the state tournament. They lost to the Meridian Warriors by a 50-67 count, creamed the Minico Spartans 48-36 and then were defeated by the Borah Lions 41-56.

Sophomore girls' basketball players consume season with 11-12 record.

A new year began for the oncoming fiery Sophomore basketball players. The team was a combination of ten sophomores and two hot returning juniors, Dana Keller and Angie Brower.

The season started with a sour loss over Madison. After a few more practice games after school, Skyline came back with two wins, resulting in a spicy 46-34 win over Bonneville and a tangy 52-38 win over Blackfoot. Blackfoot was one of the highlight games of the season, the other was a savory 40-17 win over Twin Falls.

The next game was with Pocatello, which resulted in a 46-42 win for the Griz. The next two games were with Bonneville and Madison in which the Griz had to face two losses.

District resulted in two wins and two losses— 35-24 over Bonneville, 30-37 loss against Idaho Falls, 54-43 over Bonneville, and a 37-41 to Idaho Falls.

The girls' season ended with a sweet'n'sour 11-12 win-loss record.

"We had a lot of good kids and some great tournaments," declared assistant coach, Randy "Barney Graves.

Having to go against many deluxe wrestlers, the junior varsity wrestlers proved they were only second to the superior varsity team members.

Peaking with tantalizing tournament wins, the wrestlers took fourth at the Tiger—Grizzly, fourth at the Rigby Quad, and an appetizing first place at the Madison tournament.

At regional tournament, three JV wrestlers placed, Greg Schley stabbed fourth at 112 pounds, Scoot Muir sliced third at 126 pounds, and Rob Hall topped it off with first place at 185 pounds.

Junior Varsity wrestlers finished with an excellent season, according to Coach Barney.

Skyline track team gave it their all for a super season.

Although this year's winter was a long and cold one, Skyline's track team started practicing long before the snow was melted. The team began by lifting weights and running through the halls.

As soon as the snow began to disappear, the track was cleared and the team began to devote their after school time to practicing on every event. This year's team, both the boys and girls, did particularly well against Pocatello, Madison, Blackfoot, and Highland.

In the meets the team took part in they did very well, taking 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th places. All and all, it was a good year for Skyline track.

Prepared

Several cut-to-order tracksters placed in their smorgasboard of events at the state meet.

Preparing for the track season through the cold winter may have been hard work for the tracksters, but it paid off in the end.

Several cut-to-order tracksters went to state this year. Among the girls who qualified were Bobbie Knight in the discus and shotput, Colene Richert in the 200 and 800 meters plus the shotput, Sandy Schley in the 100 meter hurdles, and Jenny Patterson in the 1600 meter run. The girls' 800 meter relay team also went to Boise.

There were also six gourmet boys who went to state. They were Mike Bills in the shotput, Mike Sayer in the discus, Jackie Stanton in the long jump, Mike Decker in the pole vault and high jump, Pat Becker in the high hurdles, and Todd Williams in the 800 meter dash.

Overall the girls placed 8th in team standings and the boys tossed up the 14th place position. Eight out of the ten people who went to state placed in their specialty event. Decker took 5th in the pole vault, Bills placed 4th in the shot, Becker took 5th in the 300 hurdles, Williams received 7th in the 800 meters, Richert placed first in both the 800 and the shot, Patterson took 12th in the 1600, Knight took 7th in the discus, and the girls' relay team placed 8th.

All in all, the tracksters' season ended well as they finished their last event at the state meet. The smorgasboard of skills tracksters shared showed great improvement throughout the season.

Improved

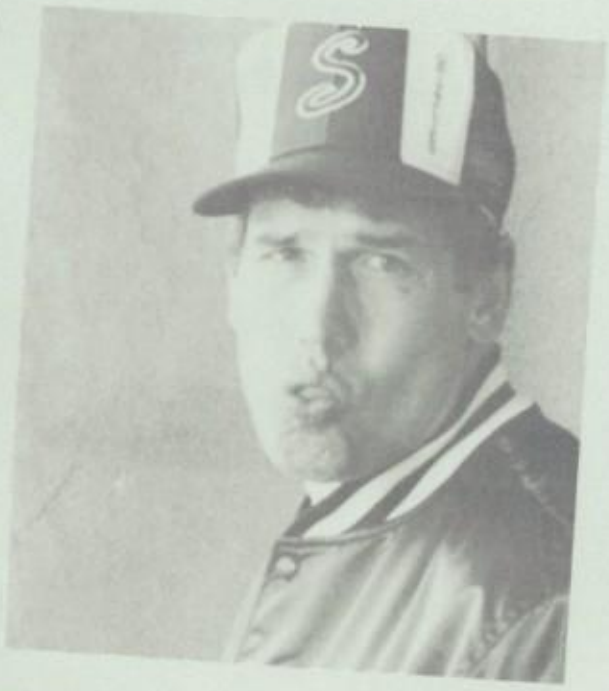
Baseball players whipped up some new enthusiasm and the team was a title contender throughout the season.

After suffering through a 1-19 season last year, the varsity baseball team rebounded for a 9-3 conference and 10-5 overall record during most of 1985. They also contended for the Gem State Conference title during most of the season.

Practicing and toning their muscles during some aerobics sessions during the fall and winter, players were hungry for the spring season. Finally, the first game approached, but, because of the late snow, the team hadn't been able to practice outside.

Going into the last week of the regular season, Skyline was feasting on first place in the GSC. However, seasonal rain showers in the last week of the regular season rained them out of two critical games and pushed them into second place.

Commenting on the season, Coach Ron Perrenoud said, "We have had a team effort and everyone has pulled together and not tried to be individuals. I will miss the seniors."



"This season has been very enjoyable. It's always fun to win and this team was made up of winners."

Filled

The hot varsity baseball players devoured 3rd place at District.

"The seniors have started a good thing and we look forward to being stronger in baseball each year," commented Coach Ron Perrenoud.

The fresh season started out sunny-side-up this year for the baseball players. They did deluxe areobics, which conditioned them for the season ahead.

Coach Perrenoud was chosen as the Gem State Coach of the year. Rodney Hansen and Cory McClellan received a toasted Honorable Mention while Brian DeFilippis was chosen for the Second Team in the Gem State Conference. The team swept to 2nd place overall in the Gem State Conference.

The hot varsity baseball players devoured 3rd place in the Gem State play-offs and minced a 6th place in the State A-1 Tournament.

Out of the 21 tangy games played, they won a crisp 11 and lost 10. The pitchers contributed a lot to the successful season. Brad Foster pitched six wins and 2 losses, Mike Hall had four wins and 2 losses, and Brian DeFilippis carried a 1 and 2 record.

Coach Perrenoud said that Dave Porter, the assistant coach, was a real help to the outfielders, especially, and to the whole team in general.

In commenting on the season, Coach Perrenoud said, "Thanks for a great year, baseball players, and good luck to all of you."

Red hot

Junior Varsity baseball broiled their opponents for a 10-5 record.

As the junior varsity baseball team's first game was also their first trip outside, hopes for a simmery season weren't too promising. However, the team broiled their opponents for a 10-5 season.

When asked for the highlight of his team's sizzling season, Coach Curtis Rudd said that, although they had a grand slam homer in the Highland game. At the half-way point, Highland was leading the league, but Skyline started broiling and challenged the Rams throughout the remainder of the season. In reflecting on the season, Rudd said that, althought they had a "very good season," it could have been better if they could have gotten outside sooner. Three games were rained out, including the last two against Pocatello.

"We had a bunch of very good kids," bragged Rudd. "The future of Skyline baseball is good." He attributed this to the nucleus of 2 juniors, 10 sophomores, and 8 freshmen on the team.

Golfers chipped and drove their way through a fall and spring golf season.

Coach Mike Rose took over the position of Floyd Young for the coach of the golf season.

Bill Carter and David Gronbeck are the only returning experienced starters on this year's team.

"I can't wait to get started." was Coach Rose's attitude toward the season ahead.

Skyline's golf team decided to go co-ed this season. There has never been a co-ed golf team in the school's history.

Skyline's first tournament was with Twin Falls. They pulled through to finish in fifth place.

At the Pocatello Invitational Skyline's golf team placed sixth out of nine teams.

At the Gem State Conference Golf Tournament at Twin Falls, Skyline placed sixth out of eight teams. In the second Gem State Conference Tournament at Minico, Skyline took fifth place.

A startling change had taken place in golf this year. All tournaments and district meets were played in the fall and state was in the spring.

At State, Bill Carter shot an 83 to lead the Griz, who finished in 10th place.

Snow-covered courts backed up the opening of the tennis season to April.

When spring finally arrived, the tennis team was eager to begin their season. Mother Nature, however, was not cooperating. Because of all the snow that still remained on the ground in March, all of the scheduled matches had to be canceled and moved to April. Although this put a damper on the games, the players didn't wait. They held practices indoors for about two hours every night in the Eagle Rock Gym.

In April, the tennis team played two matches a week. During the last two weeks of the season they played four matches a week plus two tournaments. This kept them busy, but it was worth it. "It was the funnest year we ever had," exclaimed Coach K.C. Jones.

The season record was five wins, five losses and two ties, which was a good improvement over last year. Gretchen Meikle was the only player that went to state where she placed fourth.

Embarrassment:

Have you been in one of these situations?

Have you ever found yourself in an embarrassing situation while eating a meal or snack?

Going out for a dinner or a lunch date can be risking embarrassment, especially when it's your first date or even the second one. What would you do if you accidentally spilled your drink all over the table or in your date's lap? If nothing that bad happens, you could order a very messy type of food and find yourself trying to be inconspicuous as you struggle to carefully keep the food off your face and fingers.

Have you ever had food, such as peanut butter, stuck on the roof of your mouth when you were in a crowd and found it very hard to resist the urge to unstick it with your finger? Or how about dinner at Jake's or The Mill before a dance? Sometimes just cutting your steak can be a task, or food, such as spaghetti or crablegs, can be almost impossible to eat politely. Have you ever found yourself with a salad containing huge pieces of lettuce that couldn't possilby fit in your mouth?

Even worse, what if, after dinner you received your bill and you didn't have enough money to pay for it, or you found that you had left your wallet at home?

Choking on a piece of food or swallowing your drink wrong can also be highly embarrassing. It never fails to happen when you eat at someone else's home—they always seem to serve you first when they're having something that you absolutely hate.

Even though eating is one of Americans' favorite pastimes, it can also provide some of the most embarrassing situations.

Tasting their over-the-counter food at the Eastern Idaho State Fair in Blackfoot are Catrina Olsen and Kurt Machen.

Consuming Lunch:

What are the choices?

With the shorter lunch hour of 45 minutes many students choose to remain at school for lunch. Of the students who do remain at school they have these options as to their lunchtime meal: bring their own lunch from home, buy lunch from the school cafeteria, purchase Hostess products or candy from the "Bear Necessities" store, or drop a couple quarters in the vending machines and receive a candybar or chips.

While many students do remain at school during the noon hour a greater percentage of the students go out to eat.The 45-minute lunch period restricted the variety of places students can go for lunch, but some of the places in which they are able to get their food in time to make it back are: Taco Time, McDonalds, Pizza Hut, The Wizard, Red Steer, Tam's, The Yogurt Loft, Mama's, and Arctic Circle—all in close proximity to the school. Although students are able to get a variety of food at these eating establishments close to the school, some venture further and try to make it back within the 45 minutes.

Even though the lunch period was shortened to 45 minutes, the majority of the students still stuck to the traditions of either eating at school or going out for something to eat at lunchtime.

Food:

A necessity for gatherings?

Food...not only is it a necessity of our lives, but also it can provide the individual with an uplifting addition to a social activity. For instance, a family decides to go for a drive. Well, why not add a little potato salad with some chicken and...wala...they've got a picnic.

There are a great variety of gatherings associated with food. Some of these gatherings are banquets with formal meetings or dances; campfire cooking to accompany camping out; and, along with others, there is the good old-fashioned "cookout" just to spice up an evening meal.

Food is one thing we can't survive without, but it can provide us with pleasurable social activities. So just put your creative ideas along with food to prepare a feast all will enjoy.

Survey Results:

What were the strange and comical selections?

To find out the student body's "over the counter" favorite foods, the Behemoth staff sent out a survey. There were some surprising results as well as some funny ones. Since the various comical and strange answers didn't make the top percentages, they weren't published in the survey results, but we decided to share some of them with you, anyway.

Someone actually claimed that their favorite food was a peanut butter and cottage cheese sandwich! Mud pie was at the top of the dessert list for three people surveyed, and two people proclaimed that seafood made them sick. A loyal fan wrote Michael Jackson's name down in the favorite fruit category! One student admitted that they didn't drink pop; and speaking of drinks, here's one of the milkshakes listed as a favorite: A Chocolate-Peanut Butter-Marshmellow-Carmel Malt. That would melt before you could tell someone what flavor it was. Someone named Screaming Yellow Zonkers as their favorite snack, while another claimed that he or she loved grasshopper pie and cookies. One person, who must have incredible tastedbuds, responded that their favorite sandwich is peanut butter and mayonaise. Two people declared that they like their steak raw and someone else loves spinach soup. For the next formal dance you better be careful who your date is! A few students think of a fancy restaurant as a place like Wendy's, McDonalds, or Taco John's. How would you feel sitting at a fast food restaurant in formal attire eating a hamburger or a burrito?

As our survey proved, Skyline students have a wide variety of tastes and some strange ones, too. The most popular favorites and the likes and dislikes can be found in the survey results.

Jingles:

Do they bring on an uncontrollable urge?

Have you ever found yourself walking down the street, humming some zany tune from a TV or radio advertisement to yourself?

The advertisement businesses think up these crazy jingles to get the public to think about their product. You're probably saying, "Oh, that's ridiculous," but if you stop and think about it, haven't you ever sung the slogan, "Scrunchus, when it munches, that's why I love Nestle Crunch!"? All of a sudden you have an uncontrollable urge to eat a Nestle Crunch bar.

You may not have sung that particular slogan, but just think back, and one of these catchy melodies will sound familiar: "I'm a pepper, she's a pepper." Or how about "Roll a Rolo to your pal," "Puff..puff...Coco Puffs," "Double jumpin', double dribble"? There are many others you can probably think of now. If one of these slogans brings back a memory of a time when you had an urge to devour one of those products, then the food slogans are working and the advertising people are succeeding with their job.

Food Wars:

Does the competition benefit the buyer?

Food Wars, they're all around us! Fast food restaurants are where it's noticed the most. Burger King had 39¢ burgers, and McDonalds was losing business so they had an anniversary sale and dropped the price of their burgers to 37¢. "Oh no," cries Red Steer, and for fear of losing business they too decreased their price on burgers to 39¢.

It didn't happen only at the burger specialists, Taco Time had "Daily Specials" whereas Taco Johns offered "Taco Tuesday," where you could get two tacos for 99¢. "What a deal!" they said, "You can't miss it," and miss it we didn't.

This competition between fast food places benefits the buying public. While the businesses were dropping their prices to stay in the "rat race," the consumers were getting the low prices on their favorite foods. Choose almost any restaurant and you will find some kind of Food War going on.

Food Wars are a great deal, but why the war if no one is winning?

*Enjoying her Taco Time buritto is Michelle Barrett.

Prices:

Have they risen dramatically over the years?

Throughout the past 30 years or so, prices on food items have increased dramatically.

At afterschool hangouts, teenagers used to enjoy a big, juicy hamburger along with a generous amount of french fries for about 70¢. These days, a good-sized burger and fries cost about $1.75 or more. Big, tall, frosty shakes cost only a quarter while candybars, ice cream cones, and pop out of machines were only a dime. The return of pop bottles yielded only 2¢, but there was a healthy supply of penny candy to spend it on. Penny candy now is about 3¢ and the size of the pieces is smaller.

If you went out for doughnuts, you could get a doughnut and hot chocolate for 15¢, or if you just wanted a cup of coffee it cost only 5¢. How about a box of popcorn at the movies? Well, you would have to dig out a dime from your pocket for that. Wouldn't it be nice to spend a dime rather than the dollar we presently pay for popcorn at the movies?

Dinner at a family restaurant had prices like "All You Can Eat" for only $1.00 and a good 12-ounce, New York-cut steak along with a salad and a baked potato for $3.99. A steak with the works like that is likely to cost around $15.99 today. Even the good ol' basics like bread at 20¢ a loaf and a gallon of milk for about 25¢ have present prices of $1.25 and $2.00.

Our parents had prices like these when they were our age which makes the prices we pay now seem high to them. Can you imagine what prices will be like when we are parents ourselves?

Senior Menu

After waiting eleven simmering years, the Class of '85 finally realized what it was like to be up at the top. They hardly believed that they received all the deluxe privileges that came along, as kind of a side order dish, for just being seniors.

A fixed parking lot helped ease the walk to the school from the seniors' cars during the frosted winter. It so happened to be that, if underclassmen tried to park in this "Senior Parking Lot," they would receive a crisp surprise of flattened tires.

Along with the pipin' hot parking lot, there was a sizzling senior section in the gym. This section was not only the largest section of seats, but is also belonged to the Senior Class. The seniors enjoyed this special section while attending peppery pep assemblies and other functions.

Following tradition, the seniors took first place in the hot Homecoming Week competition. With all the support they needed, the class officers—Morgan Bates, president; Sarah Christian, vice-president; LaRell Smith, secretary; and Karey Worton, historian—organized a sparkling Senior Ball and scrumptious graduation.

The Class of '85 heaped their final year in high school with fun, even through the good times and the bad. The tasty leisure days and the morseled research papers were all served on the smorgasboard of their senior year.

Looking into planning for college and their futures, the graduates of 1985 stabbed the frustrations of leaving high school with the skewer of anticipation that they would continue to grow as they pursued their college or job opportunities.

Stuffed knowledge

Maintaining a deluxe 4.0 GPA since the ninth grade has been "pretty easy." At least that is how Lauren McClure feels.

Lauren commented that his only hard courses this past year were senior comp. and senior lit. But even so, he is always prepared and has kept a loaded schedule for the past four years.

Besides his load of "Over-easy" courses, Lauren garnished his schedule by participating on the school's Scholastic Team, Honor Society, playing the violin in the orchestra, or scrambling after the tennis ball in the spring for the past four years on the tennis team.

Lauren also took a physics course at Cal. Tech. in the summer of 1984 and finished a calculus class through the University of Idaho's extension office during his evening hours this past school year.

Bausch & Lomb seasoned Lauren with their prestigious Science Award and Rochester University has offered him a tantilizing scholarship.

Cutting out the pieces of her material, Robin Crose is in the process of making a chef's apron.

Garnishing gifts

When the ingredients are mixed together properly, then the end result should be an appealing and appetizing dish.

The basic ingredients in this case are modeling, cooking, and decorating cookies and cakes. Add to this mixture a petite senior girl who has been Junior Prom Queen and Homecoming Queen this year, and the end product is Robin Crose.

Robin cooks and sews "for the enjoyment of doing it." Although she plans on studying cosmetology, she doesn't toss out the idea of continuing to bake and decorate "as kind of a hobby."

Cut-to-order

What is a lapidary? A lapidary (not lapidarist) is a person who cuts rocks into sizzling gems for rings, necklaces, earrings, and bracelets.

When Zane Cutler was five-years-old, his brother gave him his first real sparkling rock collection to begin his quest to be a lapidary. In eighth grade Zane purchased his first cutting machine, which was a diamond grinder. With the help from a friend in Pocatello, he learned to use the new machine.

In the future, Zane plans on going to school to become a deluxe gemologist, which grades and appraises the crisp gems.

He now does custom work in his delicacy shop,"Zane's Precision Gems."

Adding her personal touch to a poster contest entree' is senior artist Michelle Metcalf.

Ala mode art

Michelle Metcalf received her first taste of art while visiting an art museum in Utah.

Her favorite art work is charcoal drawings, because they are the easiest and still look more appealing than some other types of art work. Watercolors are her least favorite; however, she has been practicing and improving these savory skills.

Michelle has not entered many contests, but did win first place in the "Tooth Slueth" bookmark competition and also a third in a state newspaper advertising layout contest this year.

Scrumptious skills

Package together the three ingredients of acting, singing, and some ala mode guitar playing and your final product will be one Scott Ahlstrom. Scott works hard perfecting all of his talents, but he says he just feels best when he's singing.

Adding his savory voice to the cut-to-order tenor section of the tangy Chamber and Swing Choirs gave Scott most of his experience. He throws in his own flame-broiled practice on the side.

As for Scott's sizzling acting career, he has performed such roles as the boisterous sheriff in this year's school production, The Wild Flowering of Chastity, in various District 91 musicals, such as The Wizard of Oz and The Sound of Music. Scott also portrayed the tin man in this year's Senior Skit during homecoming.

Kim was reaching perfection in gymnastics at age 14. By that time Kim had reached a Class I rating (tops for pre-Olympic amatuers), and had been to several camps and regional competitions. She was even thinking of trying out for the 1984 Olympic Team. Then, one of the basic ingredients for succuessful gymnatics turned sour. Reoccuring knee problems forced Kim to quit competing.

For the present, Kim must be content with next best. She has been teaching gymnastics for the last two years, but quit when she prepared to enter college this fall.

Junior Menu

Being the simmering in-between class at Skyline, the juniors had to sit smoldering waiting for their chance to be at the top, for their chance to be the pipin' hot seniors.

Sure, they were no longer the "lowly sophomores," but they still were not allowed all the deluxe privileges that they would gain when they finally became a senior.

During the main course of the spicy 1984-85 school year, the super abundant Class of '86 had to face various unsavory projects. The prepared Junior Class Officers—President Leslie Evans, Vice-President Shanley Richards, Secretary Kevin Taggart, and Historian Melissa Park—scrambled together the right ingredients of "This Year's Menu" just right and made the junior year a successful one.

They sliced into the year by taking second place in the Skit Morning Assembly, whipping the seniors in the tug-of-war during class competitions, and tossing their best efforts into decorating their spirit wall and homecoming parade float. They also blended togehter all the right ingredients in the spring for the annual Junior Prom which made it turn out to be a heaping success.

This year, the Class of '86 held a smorgasboard of talent, which allowed them to enjoy a sizzling year full of tangy events.

Elegant combinations

Ballet, tap, baton, and acrobatics is where it all started for Cindy Borsheim at the age of three. She limits herself to dancing mostly jazz.

Cindy was a sizzling Skyline Teddy Bear during the summer of 1983 and the first semester of her sophomore year.

At LaJuan Whitney Studio is where she belongs to the spice filled Action Unlimited Dance Troupe.

This dance troupe took its steaming hot "Thriller Dance" to Las Vegas where they took first place, and to top that off, won a trip to Hollywood which took place this summer.

Cindy's going to see how it goes in Hollywood and decide whether or not she'll pursue a bittersweet career as a dancer, or a dance instructor.

She enjoys her classes and participates in some teaching. Cindy said there are a lot of nice people involved and encourages dancers, especially guys, as they only have one guy remaining in the troupe, to try out for the troupe.

Two brands of talent

When you throw together the ingredients of rodeo and art, what do you get? Rod Richardson.

Rod has been beefing up his rodeo talents in bullriding and saddle bronc riding for the past two years. These two rodeo categories are pretty dangerous, for the rider can get hashed and mashed when tossed from a bronc or bull. Rod has skimmed along the edge of being scramble when he broke his leg last year at a practice in Firth.

Added to his rodeo talents, Rod rellished an interest in art. "I draw places that I like to be," commented Rod when asked about his art talent. The cowboy in Rod shows in his art because he likes to draw and paint still life of western towns and horses primarily, but can draw other things as well.

Rod has wrapped up three years of art in junior high and two years of art in high school. He plans to blend both rodeo and art into his future.

Sophomore Menu

A fresh year rolled around once again, bringing along an exciting new class of sophomores.

With the Class of 1987 arriving at Skyline, it was just like another dish added to the menu for the upper classmen; however, for this new group of students, it was like a totally new menu.

Along with the new students came a new brand of spirit and pride. Besides having a successful football team, the sophomores made it through the year by capturing first in Spirit Wall and Tricycle Race competitions during Homecoming-Spirit Week. Overall, they took second in the Class Sweepstakes competition.

After the first few class meetings, the Sophomore Class Officers finally organized the class and figured out what needed to be done to continue their demonstration of unity and pride. Their major spring activity was Sophomore Hop.

In the years to come, whatever the Class of '87 decides to accomplish, members know that they got a big taste of success as sophomores at Skyline High School.

Sizzling talents

It all began for Lisa Peters in the fourth grade as she acted out the lead role of "Little Bell" in her grade school's Christmas play.

Lisa considers music to be her life. She commented, "Without music, I would be nothing." And with Lisa's fresh, crisp voice, it doesn's seem as if she will be having any problems in the non-music category.

In the past two years, Lisa has had a smorgasboard of various roles that have kept her acting and singing sizzling.

In her spare time, Lisa is busy concocting new songs — five so far— as she continues her piano playing.

Smokin' with talent

Blending their super abundance of talents together, a group of young musicians has formed a pipin'-hot band. They call themselves "Black Velvet."

Greg Copp sings with a fresh tart voice, while Mike Cromwell's on bass. Joe Lucero wraps on the drums as B.J. Copp whips the audience into tune with his guitar.

When all scrambled together, these noises form a sound the audience savours.

All the members of this band, excluding leader Greg, are sophomores. Greg is a senior. Members prefer to play sizzling hard rock or heavy metal music rather than the popular new wave or pop tunes. This band has been playing together since February of 1984.

Stirring the dust

Under the breaking name of "Sir Ghost," sophomore Andre Taylor has been poppin' for six years and breakin' for the last two years. Andre has never taken lessons, he just seasoned his talents on the streets of Miami, Florida with his seven cousins who live there.

"I'm in my room for hours every day, just poppin' and breakin' " expressed Andre. All of his time brought a savory result, for Andre has won all of the many break dancing contests he has entered in South Eastern Idaho. The other half of Andre's doubles combo is "Smiley", (Paul Flores) of Blackfoot, Idaho.

So when you feel the air stir, don't be scared. It's just "Sir Gohhst" spinning on the floor while cooking up his break dancing talents.

Whipping her fingers across the piano keys, Christy Tobias performs during a personal recital.

Savoury music

Can you picture Christy Tobias as her fingers whip across the keyboard, barely skimming each key?

Ever since she was six-years-old — which makes for a deluxe total of 10 years, Christy has been blendng the notes of the piano, creating beautiful music. She has also been helping her students concoct their own music. Christy has been teaching piano for the past four years.

Del Parkinson at Ricks College is Christy's third and current music instuctor. It's no wonder Christy has been garnished with superior ribbons on all her savoury music.

Cutting through the mud, Pete Hahn turns the corner at a Sage Junction motocross race.

Preparing for first

Leaving a trail of dust behind him, Pete Hahn has been motor cross racing for four simmering years.His first smoking bike was given to him when he was twelve years old and in the seventh grade. The bike he received was a peppery 2-stroke, which is a CR80.

Starting in May and lasting until Setpember, Pete enters a number of the Eastern Idaho Motocross Association races. The EIMA races are held at Noise Park, Taylor Mountain, and in Pocatello.

During his sophomore year, Pete creamed his fellow racers and placed third at Sage Junction.

Pete Hahn will keep stabbing for the first place title for at least another year.

Salad Bar

A variety of changes in policies and procedures were tossed into (and out of) effect.

Throughout the main course of the 1984-85 school year, some changes of procedures and policies were tossed into effect while others were voided. Some of these fixed changes were taken lightly and others not so lightly.

Before the school year had even started cooking, the most noticeable changes of all had already taken place. These were changes that wouldn't be seen until Septembers 6, 1984, when the school year began.

One of these, as all have probably already guessed, was the addition of the new principal, Mr. Lewis J. Gourley. Starting out this year's menu right, Mr. Gourley whipped the student body into shape with his dedication and pride. With a principal who was interested in the students, more people had decided to get involved in various ala mode activities, which included pep assemblies, dances, sports' programs, and clubs. Mr. Gourley was blending into the atmosphere at Skyline.

The fall fo '84 also scrambled in the new attendance policy. This was one major change that was extremely disliked—at least by the students. This policy stated that a student had to be in attendance for at least 90 per cent of the scheduled days in each prepared semester. This meant that a student could only miss a total of nine days, including school-excused absences for club and sports activities.

Another change that was served up at the beginning of the second semester last year was the unsavory new "lock-out" tardy policy. This policy informed the students that after (and including) their fourth tardy they would be marked absent, locked-out, and given an unexcused absence. The majority of students said they disliked the hardened system of tardy procedures.

This Year's Menu went through some crazy times, but in the end everything seemed to melt together.

Prepared

Required classes provided useful knowledge for the students' futures.

Idaho's teachers, administrators, and State Board of Education planned the students' menu with choices such as consumer ecomonics, American government, oral communications, English literature, grammar, health, and senior composition being at the top of the list.

The State of Idaho, to some students, might have seemed sort of rotten for requiring certain classes to be completed before graduation, but although these courses may have seemed bitter, they did provide useful knowledge for our futures.

English courses were mandatory every year throughout high school. Tangy sophomore and junior literature classes provided information about a concoction of short stories, poetry, mythology, and novels. Old fashion grammar classes taught the prepared mechanics and usage of the English language.

Senior comp. took the place of literature and grammar during the seniors' final school days. This gave students a change to practice the smorgasboard of skills they had learned throughout high school by producing fresh, crisp stories, essays, and last, but not least, the unsavory research paper.

Consumer economics was designed to aid students with various saute'd skills such as budgeting, savings, and income taxes, all of which were worthwhile and practical for experiences after high school.

Oral communications was another meaningful course. This cut-to-order class helped build communication skills which certainly could come in handy in anyone's future.

Along with the required subjects already mentioned, the State of Idaho also listed U.S. history, one year of mathematics, and two years of science—one of which had to be a lab science like biology or chemistry. Although it may have seemed that the state had strict standards that had to be met, remember that they did it for the benefit of the students' futures.

Ala mode

Students garnished their schedules with various spicy electives.

Aside from the cut-to-order required classes taught at Skyline High School, there were also various ala mode electives that were offered. Some students took these classes as preparation for the field they planned to go into in college. Others just signed up for these side-order classes for the fun of it, or to get an easy "A."

Among those electives one could choose to develop certain skills for college use were marketing, accounting, art classes, or gourmet language courses.

Marketing and accounting skills can be very useful in planning a savory career in the business field. Appealing computer courses could also be found very appetizing.

Students planning a life as an interpreter or teacher may have wished to enroll in any one of the different spicy language courses that were offered at Skyline. These included French, German, or Spanish. These peppery classes were offered throughout a student's four years in high school so that they could whip their specialty language into shape before moving onto college.

Industrial arts, ceramics, sculpturing, drawing, and just basic deluxe art classes were offered to students who were considering a gourmet career in any artistic field of study. These classes were also taken just for the fun of it, or to satisfy a person's curiosity.

Auto mechanics, agriculture, industrial arts, home ec and welding were all tossed together as the vocational opportunities available at Skyline.

The menu at Skyline was garnished with some other spicy electives, some of which were psychology, sociology, debate, drama, and journalism.

Electives provided many benefits, and could also just be taken strictly for the enjoyment of taking the class.

Super-abundant acting talents are put into action by Fred Hendricks and Tami McNew.

Skyline High...the very words seem to portray the inherent pride that each of us holds for our school: pride in our scholars and their great academic achievements, pride in the fierce winning drive of our athletes, and most of all, pride in our school's unity and spirit.

During the past year, I have watched a school rise from a depressed low to a soaring peak. It is impossible to attribute this great accomplishment to any one person or group, for it was the result of everyone's hard work and undying spirit.

We can all be proud to have belong to the Skyline High School Student Body of the year, 1984-1985.

Headcooks

Stirring in new ideas, Student Body Officers helped make Skyline a better school.

Before you bake a cake you must first get all the ingredients. Here at Skyline the people who got the ingredients together were the student body officers.

The Student Body Officers met first hour every day, often times going to breakfast at Smitty's for an early breakfast meeting to discuss the school calendar, throw around ideas, and organize other school functions. They also arranged a committee to get a stereo sound system for the school dances. This would reduce the cost of putting on dances and also increase the profit for the organization sponsoring the dance. The student body officers sponsored a victory dance and sold concessions to get money for this project.

Another major committee which the officers set up was the Student-Faculty Advisory Commitee. The Student Body Officers went to the administration with the idea for the council before the start of school last fall. This committee advises the administration and Student Council on school policy and programs.

Combining

Tossing their ideas together, Student Council members concocted several committee projects.

Meeting during first hour on the second Wednesday of each month, Student Council was cut up into sub-committees to accomplish a variety of tasks.

Some of the larger portions of the committees' work centered around two or three topics. One of these items was a busy schedule of intramurals. Tossed together by Student Body Vice-President Kristen Richards, selections included volleyball, basketball, dodgeball, and ping pong. Another entree' was the lunch survey. Results were tabulated with the hopes that input would be used to improve lunch service next year.

Student Council was also called upon to vote on items proposed by the Faculty-Student Advisory Council. Before being served to the students, suggested changes had to be approved by the FSAC and Student Council, with the school administration having the veto power over both bodies.

One of the busier groups of the school, Student Council stirred up ways to involve students and to serve administrative proposals to the students in a tantilizing manner.

Bubbling

Heightening the spirit at Skyline, the cheerleaders dished up a goulash of pride.

Bubbling over with spirit, the cheerleaders kept the enthtusiasm going all year long.

During the summer of 1984, the cheerleaders attended a spirit camp, called USA, at Utah State University, where they received two spirit sticks and a superior trophy.

After summer camp, the spirit squad started decorating the halls of Skyline, as well as putting on skits and cheers at the pep assemblies. They also sponsored the Valentine's Day girl's choice dance. Cheerleaders helped bring back the pride of Skyline High.

Throughout the year, cheerleaders cheered at all the football and basketball games, keeping the spirit high at Skyline.

Pipin' hot

The Teds worked themselves to perfection for their competitions.

Hard work, practice and dedication pay off.

Teddy Bears took first place in Minidome competition and second place in the Fourth of July parade. That winning taste didn't come naturally to these young ladies; it took practice—lots of it. They practiced at 6 a.m. every morning before school. They also practiced hard before all competitions and the Fourth of July parade. In March, they also participated in the Intermountain Drill Competition.

To make money for costumes and competitions, the Teds made pizzas over the summer, held bake sales at summer school, sold candy at Christmas, and sold contour and make-up sets.

The Mat Maids, wrestlers, & Coach Brian Ricks helped to raise school spirit.

Mat Maids cheered at various wrestling matches and pep assemblies. They attended all of the Skyline wrestling duals and tournaments to support the wrestlers and give them recognition to cool up school spirit. One of their big activities was traveling to the two-day Green River, Wyoming tournament with the 10 Skyline wrestlers and the coaches.

Mat Maids are chosen on an individual basis by a vote of the wrestlers prior to the start of the wrestling season each year. They held various fund-raising activities to support their busy year.

Tart

What's cooking for Spirit Club? Why the lack of support?

Spirit Club started out with approximately 30 members in the fall. From the start it was a little bit sweet 'n' sour for the organization.

Meetings would be called and no one would show up. On game days, one or two members would spice up in the blue spirit skirt and sweaters. About the same number would show up in uniforms at the games. Three members were ready for pictures of the club on picture day for the yearbook.

What's cooking for Spirit Club? Why the lack of support? When asked these questions, President Jamie Tuel had these tart comments: "I think the main reason Spirit Club wasn't as active this year as in previous years, was not because the girls lacked school spirit, but they lacked the desire of belonging to an organized group. I guess they just wanted to do their own thing!"

Faculty-Student Advisory Council recommended that Spirit Club be abolished next year. Instead, the FSAC suggested all the students be asked to serve up the Grizzly brand of unified spirit next year.

Sizzling with pride, members of Teddy Bears, Mat Maids, and Spirit Club cheer on the girls in an exciting volleyball match.

Garnished

Providing support in various ways, Booster Club aided the academic and athletic programs.

Throughout the year, Booster Club helped support all the academic and athletic activities, both verbally and financially. They raised money by selling dine out books, jackets, hats, Booster Club Memberships, season passes, and they sponsored a junior basketball tournament.

Boosters went to many of the games to give the players and bands added support. In January, they sponsored a 50's dance at the beginning of the year.

Recognized by their dark blue "Booster Jackets," members met the first Tuesday of each month to discuss and plan things for the various school organizations.

Improved

Bands made progress during Dunmire's second year.

Bands were active this year. They started with a Christmas concert, then a pre-fest concert, and ended the year with a trip to Logan, Utah, to compete in a concert band fesital. Throughout the year, they made money for the trip by doing coupon sales at Albertsons.

Concert Band was held during the second semester of school. In actuality, Concert Band was just the same people that were in Marching Band. Marching Band was held during the first semester of the year.

Jazz Band and Jazz Combo practiced before and after school to increase their musical skills. They also hosted the Idaho State Jazz Festival at Skyline. There were competition and critiques by Dr. Ray Smith, a synthesist from BYU.

Mr. Bob Dunmire, band director, indicated that he was very pleased with the progress he has made during his second year as a teacher here at Skyline. "The bands have all improved immensely over last year, especially the marching ability of the Marching Band," he commented.

Whipped

Flag Team & Marching Band jelled into a successful combo.

Flag Team brought distinction to Skyline with their added flair at home basketball and football games. Members of Flag Team participated in some half-time shows, besides presenting the colors and forming spirit lines for football players.

Drill Mistress for Flag Team 1984-85 was Mary Hammond.

The primary reason for Marching Band was to perform pre-game and half-time shows. For the Skyline—I.F. football game, the Concert Band combined with the I.F. Marching Band, Eagle Rock Junior High Pep Band, and Clair E. Gale's Pep Band to do the half-time show. Marching Band also competed in the "Gem State Marching Festival," which was held at Ravston Stadium. They received an honorable mention.

Blending

Letter Club blended sports with determination.

To be a member of Letter Club, athletes had to earn a letter in at least one varsity sport. This required a student to give a little more time and effort than just being a participant in a sport. All members were part of a group devoted to promoting athletics at Skyline High.

Letter Club had three major activities this year. In March, they sponsored a trip to Targhee for skiing. In May, they went to Downata for their "Spring Thing." Along with these two trips, members also sold ads for the fall and winter sports programs, as well as merchandising t-shirts.

Homemade

Choirs added a spicy taste to the delectible blend of savory music.

Sounding as good as is the taste of southern fried chicken, the five choirs at Skyline this year had a good year. They put on three concerts—fall, Christmas, and spring. In addition, Chamber Choir took a tour to Boise to perform at Boise State University in the spring. Other choral groups performed for various school and community groups, as did the Chamber Choir.

Two exceptional students were selected for All-Northwest Choir, an elite music festival. Other students have won auditions to perform with symphonies and attend college on vocal scholarships.

Mr. Steve Newton, choir director, said he was "very pleased" with the choir's performances and achievements this year.

Spicy taste

Behemoth staff dishes out appetizing menu for hungry readers.

Spiced yearbook...many people will view this year's yearbook in this light. The reason for the added spice is the theme. The theme deals with food items and a menu format. It is the only "light" or untraditional theme that the yearbook has used throughout Skyline's history.

The reason for the added spice, as Editor-in-Chief Janna Howells explained, was because, "We wanted this year's book to be more light-hearted and fun. We thought that the faculty and students alike would enjoy it more."

Along with changing the look of the yearbook, the staff also went to two conventions for the betterment of the yearbook. The first was Yearbook West, held at Utah State University in Logan, Utah. It was considered to be the most flavorful by those attending both workshops. At Yearbook West, there were workshops the first half of the day, then the rest of the day was spent working on competitions or just having fun. Every night of the five days there was a social event of some kind such as a dance, movie, bowling or a canyon steak fry.

The second convention was held at Sun Valley, Idaho. There were more workshops at Sun Valley, but they were held in a open discussion format. Competitions for all participants started immediately after they arrived for the workshop.

Seven members of the yearbook staff attended Yearbook West and six staff members went to Sun Valley. At Yearbook West, Skyline took more awards than any of the 25 other schools attending. Combining with newspaper staffers, Skyline tied for sixth place at the Sun Valley contest.

Mixture

Newspaper combines a blend of hot, tasty issues with ordinary features, news.

Mixing a variety of topics, the newspaper staff covered a wide range of news, sports, reviews, and editorials in its ten issues this year.

There were a few changes that were made from last year's issues; first the staff decided to use a longer "cut." This simply means that the actual paper itself is longer. Secondly, the editor for the first semester was not the same for the second semester. The reason for this is the fact that the editor for the first semester graduated at the semester. Even with these changes, people on the newspaper staff were proud of themselves, as stated by the first semester editor Jennifer Karvinen.

Some of the newspaper staff went to a workshop to help them learn how to make a better newspaper. It was held in Sun Valley, Idaho. There were workshops, seminars, and competitions held during the conference. Competitions were held as soon as the staff arrived, judged, and then awards were handed out. The newspaper combined with the yearbook staff, took sixth place overall out of 38 different schools.

Last year's newspaper received a first class rating plus a Mark of Distinction for coverage and content from the National Scholastic Press Association.

Mixture

It took the basic ingredients of subject, photographer, and equipment to make pictures.

Photo Lab techinicians helped to capture all of the happy and also sad moments at Skyline. It took a lot of ingredients to whip up these pictures. Photo Lab used about 1200 feet of film, 2000 sheets of photographic paper, and at least 100 gallons of processing chemicals in the darkroom to create these pictures.

Taking pictures wasn't as easy as it sounds. These photographers were kept busy tossing back and forth, taking group shots and last minute pictures. Because these photographers were responsible for taking so many pictures, they were required to attend more activities and to be more places than were most other students.

Quill & Scroll members are top journalists.

Six new Quill and Scroll members were initiated at a banquet held at North's Chuck Wagon. New publication staffs were announced as was the winner of the "Outstanding Senior Journalist of the year," Mary Ann Oakey. To even be considered a member, students must be in the top third of their class and have been on a publications staff for at least a semester.

This year, Quill and Scroll sponsored a Burlesque Week which consisted of a writing contest, a grafitti wall, a scavenger hunt, and a comic character dress up day.

Bear Necessities school store has rolled in thousands of dollars this year.

Since last year the school store, Bear Necessities, has spiced up its profits by nearly one hundred percent.

The first new adjustment they made, once they got the store operating this year, was a weekly supply of donuts. That went over great until Hostess pies, twinkies, ding-dongs, and donuts were added to the stock.

Adviser Brock Taylor, having just recently graduated from college, added a fresh taste to the program. He reinstituted the DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America) in the place of the previous Marketing program. He also made suggestions about new items to sell. Under his supervision and McHugh's management, Bear Necessities has cooked up an appealing profit.

Specialty

Spicing up their acting talents, Thespians hit the stage.

Starting at the beginning of the year, Thespians started rehearsing the first of two plays they put on this year. The first was The Wild Flowering of Chastity or Chaste Across the Stage. It was a one-act melodrama. The second play was a three-act comedy, The Man Who Came to Dinner.

"I was really happy with both plays," Fred Hendricks stated when asked how the plays went.

Besides the plays, Thespians also helped in the March of Dimes Walk-a-thon. They dressed up in costumes and helped at the checkpoints.

Combining

Throwing together computers and people produced tasteful programs and readouts.

Math Club was widely known for its compata-match, that is cooked up every year in the spring.

Compata-match was a tri-school computer dating system that matched participants up with a possible date. The schools that participated in this joint project were Skyline, Idaho Falls, and Bonneville, so there is a wide variety to be matched from. This match might be compared to a combination pizza with all sorts of odd or tasty extras.

In addition to this match, Math 'Club entered into a lot of competition meets. In preparation for these meets they had special workshops held at noon for a couple of weeks before the meets. In these workshops members were taught new techniques and functions for arithmetic.

Math Club was open to anyone who wanted to participate in the meets.

Any member who paid the $3 admission charge could have participated in this Math Club pizza party held at noon in the computer room.

Cooking

This year's Art Club brewed up a coupon clipping and exotic vacationing spirit.

Art Club went on a trip to Salt Lake City, Utah, as they did last year. This year, the excursion was a fun-filled trip, complete with all of the trimmings. Participants went to workshops and toured the sites. They went in the later part of April, and the cost was $110 dollars per student.

This summer some of the Art Club students and a few teachers went on a 28-day tour of Europe. Stops included England, France, Germany, Italy, and Greece. The tour was topped off with a three-day cruise. The cost was approximately $3,000 dollars per participant.

Art Club members have sold candybars and collected food coupons to raise the dough for these two excursions.

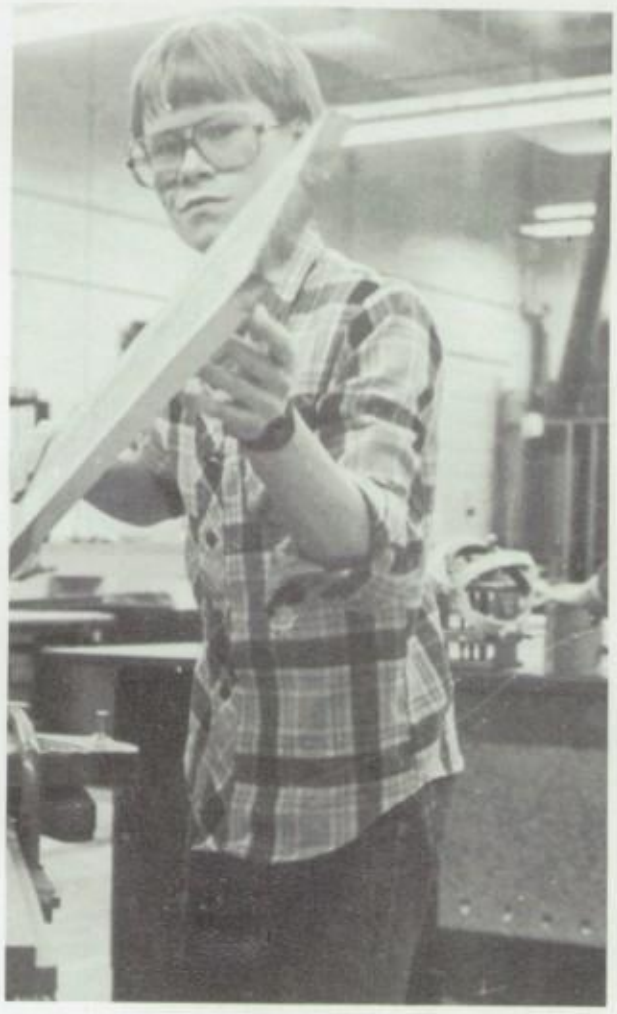
Industrial Arts Club made a good showing at state competition.



Taking third place overall, the Industrial Arts Club used their building skills to compete at the AIASA (American Industrial Arts Student Association) competition. The individual winners were determined by the total number of points accumulated at the end of the competitions, while the chapter winners were determined by the number of medals won by the individuals of that chapter.

Herb Sohn received a gold medal in the welding competition. He then competed with Kim Spring and Steve Balley in a bowl team and they also received a gold. In the compression chamber competition, Lisa Schoenemann earned a silver while Cary Nukaya took a bronze. Jason Seaman received a silver in the airplane throw.

State officers from Skyline were President, Jill Beck; Vice-President, Michelle Thiel; and Secretary, Kim Spring.

Skyline chapter officers were Herb Sohn, president; Deena Baxter, vice-president; Lisa Schoenemann, secretary; Cary Nukaya, treasurer; Mike Jacoby, reporter; and Jason Seaman, sergeant-at-arms.

Creating

OEA learned new secretarial skills and had a chance to put what they have learned to work at state and national competitions.

On March 29 and 30, OEA girls got to put what they had learned to work on these two days, thirteen OEA members went to State competition.

Three girls placed at State. Cindy Orchard took first place in Type 3, Steffani Monson placed first in Letter Composition I, and Kim Ball captured second place in Job Interview II and also received third place in Letter Composition II.

The night of April 25, the three state winners left with the American Falls group for Houston Texas, and the Nationals. Cindy Orchard placed second out of 45 state winners competing.

OEA also took food to a needy family at Christmas time.

Spicy touch

Girls' Fed. added a hot 'n' spicy touch to homecoming and commencement activities this year.

Girls' Federation was cooked up to make the girls in the school feel more involved in school activities and to create unity among them.

Girls' Fed. and cheerleaders served up a terrific Homecoming and Spirit Week all in one appetizing week. And we must not forget those scrumptious, mouthwatering val-o-grams they made during Valentine's Week. With some help from Boys' Fed., they also did a spicy job on Commencement Dance.

Gooey

Boys' Fed. seemed to have their fingers in several different pieces of the activity pie.

Boys' Federation worked right along the side of Girls' Fed. in many of the activities and combined their skills to create a pipin' hot year. They helped with Homecoming Week in many more ways that one, but one of the things that they helped Girls' Fed. prepare for was the Homecoming Dance. They decorated the cafeteria for this gala event. They also mixed ideas for the Commencement Dance.

Boys' Fed. also sponsored the December ski fashion show - one of the biggest dishes whipped up to get the student body in the mood for ski season. They also assisted with the Christmas Assembly and the Valentine's Val-o-Gram Assembly.

Appetizing

Many students longed to be part of Honor Society's tasty group.

Honor Society was made up of pipin' hot students able to maintain a tangy 3.5 or higher grade point average. Members of this club took part in several savory activities. Among these was the annual Induction Banquet in March, in which new members were blended into Honor Society, and Mayor Tom Campbell was the featured speaker. Members also had their lives seasoned with the Lagoon trip in May.

The most platable of all Honor Society activities was the group's service project. Honor Society showed its compassion for the starving in Ethiopia by being in charge of collecting $120 at Skyline for the Red Cross' relief plan.

Naschkatzen

German Club was full of "Naschkatzen," people who like snacking.

German Club held many sizzling activities throughout the school year. Among these were the Octoberfest, the Fasching party in February, and the International Dinner. The club also indulged in fun times at the I.S.U. Language Fair and German Camp, both in the spring. In order to raise money for these activities, members sold gummy bears and advent calendars filled with luscious chocolate.

Hungrig

Members of German Honor Society were "hungrig," or hungry.

German Honor Society was made up of students who feasted on German. In order to become a member, a student had to have had a three semester average of A in German, and a 3.0 combined grade point average in all other classes.

Members of this group belonged to German National Honor Society, entitled Delta Epsilon Phi. They were inducted into the Idaho chapter, Idaho Kapitel Gamma, at the International Dinner in the spring.

Pikant

German exchange students were "Pikant," or in other words, spicy.

German exchange students from Tettnang, West Germany were fresh ingredients for spring life at Skyline. The smorgasboard of people stayed at Skyline students' homes while attending school. Along with German Club, they went on several outings, garnished with fun. They visited Challis, Jackson, and Sun Valley. Also, they participated in the International Dinner, sharing their German culture with the people of Idaho Falls.

Deluxe

Scholastic Team was made up of a few select ingredients.

Members of Scholastic Team were skimmed from the student body by the teachers at Skyline. The team participated tn two seasoned meets with area high schools. In these meets, the students were asked quiz questions in various subject areas. Team members were able to keep their competitors simmered down until the last few seconds of each meet, only losing by slim margins in the end.

Serving

Key Club aided the community and school through projects.

Key Club is an organized society of high school students. Members participated in volunteer services and projects for the school. Each year, members escort career day speakers to their rooms and also serve them refreshments. Also, Key Club assisted as hosts and hostesses at Higher Education Night.

To aid the family of Derek Wade, a four-year-old who drowned in Shelley, the club made a donation from some of the money they earned selling concessions during the basketball season.

Key Club also cleaned up the back entrance to Skyline and replaced some of the white rock around the sign at the entrance.

Members of FHA prepared to be future home (or munchy) makers.

The initials, FHA, as everyone knows, stand for Future Homemakers of America. Most of the members had taken home economics at one time or another. Among many appetizing activities, FHA held scrumptious lunchtime meetings with plenty of munchies. Of course, these meetings attracted more than future homemakers.

Along with FFA (Future Farmers of America), FHA co-sponsored Harvest Ball. This tangy girl's choice dance was held in November and was a delicious success.

FHA Officers— Kellie Brooks and Kathy DeMott, social committee members; Pam Bybee, president; DeVrie Freeman, secretary; Janet Butterworth, vice-president; Teena Johnston and Morrica Chambers, social committee members. Not pictured is Maria Sanchez, treasurer.

Rolled

Reaching for the gold, the soccer team rolled up another winning season.

With a winning record of 10-3, the Skyline Soccer Team wrapped up another season. At Pocatello, the team took second in the State Cup Competition. They practiced after school almost every day after soccer season started.

"We had a really decent season," remarked Garth Bradley when asked how the team had done.

Preparing to pass the ball is Matt DiLorenzo.

Lining up on the ball, Garth Bradley tries to score a goal.

Skyline soccer coach Spencer Blanding.

Running across the field as they set up for a goal are Garth Bradley, Laird Brown and Toby Dixon.

Cooking

Debaters sizzled their opponents at some of the major cook-offs.

Although they may not have garnished as many championships as they would have liked this year, debaters still had top places in the 11 tournaments in which they competed. Awards that were won included the following:

Cathy Deneir placed second in Lincoln-Douglas debate at the Blackfoot Invitational. At the Twin Falls Invitational the teams of Karey Worton-Timonie Hood and Sue Sermon-Leslie Evans finished as quarter and semi-finalists, respectively, while Garth Bradley-Mike Willisch tied for third.

At the Boise State and Idaho State universtiy competitions, Skyline had several teams place. Shane Siddoway-Sandy Meikle were quarterfinalists at BSU. Worton-Hood took second in the Senior Division at ISU while Gretchen McFee-Tim Krsul and Mike Haddon-Jon Linde ate up all competitors and tiled for first in the Novice Division. Siddoway placed third in exptemporaneous speaking and the Skyline squad feasted on the second place Sweepstakes trophy.

In the Gem State Conference Tournament, Sermon-Evans were finalists in the Open Division. A week later, Worton-Hood broke into quarters in Senior Division and Sermon-Evans repeated the trick in the Junior Division at the Bonneville Invitational.

All in all, Skyline debaters feasted on a rewarding season.

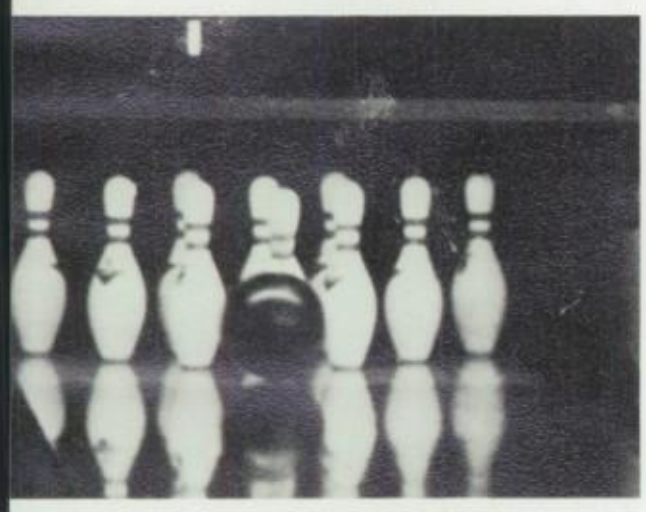
Scrambled



Skyline Bowling Club scrambled the pins during thier weekly practices and matches.

Any sports-minded student interested in bowling had an opportunity to be part of the Skyline Bowling Club. Practices were held on Monday afternoons at Skyline Lanes. Students had the chance to participate in city and state tournaments.

Bea Arnold coached and helped conduct competitions with schools from Idaho Falls, Pocatello, and American Falls.

Deep in the pocket, the ball executes a near strike.

Heading for what appears a perfect strike, the ball heads for the 1-2 pocket.

Releasing the ball, Brad Foster hopes to pick up a 7-10 split.

Rolling a strike is Todd Whitacre.

Reaching over the alley is Loren Cromwell.

Bowling Club, back row— LeAnna Tisdale, Mike Dean, Todd Whitacre, Bill Carter, Gary Baxter, Karl Kolbet, Loren Cromwell, Brad Foster, Randy Rodriquez, Mark Dixon, Mike Fish, John DiFelici, Roger Wilding, Robert Deveraux and Duane Lamm. Front row— Gary Hill, David Norris, Cindy Butler, Debbie Teraquehi, Brenda Holmer, Tony Deschamps and Brook Barlow.

Bowling Club officers, Mike Fish, vice-president, John DeFelici, president and Randy Rodriquez, treasurer.

"Back off, I bite!" growls Jim Britton.

Ending a graceful performance of "Swan Lake" is Kori Coates.

Stuffing his ego, Brian Schrader struts down the hall as sophomore girls whistle and yell comments.

"What is your biggest pet-peeve?"

Brad Hindman:
"When someone argues with me and they know nothing about the subject."

Michelle Thiel:
"False friends—people who act like your friends when they want something."

Toby Dixon:
"When people say 'manaise' instead of 'mayonaise.'"

Steve Lussie:
"People who ask to borrow your car."

Mike Willisch:
"People who don't party."

Chris Johnson:
"My little brother grinding his teeth."

True blue friends, Jean Nelson, Melissa Warren, and Kristen Morris catch the camera after a teddy bear assembly.

"What was the best excuse you've ever told your parents for coming home late?"

Robin Burrell:
"I hit a dog."

Janene Poulter:
"A telephone pole fell over and we were stuck in traffic."

Allyson Backstrom:
"It was really foggy on the way home, so we had to drive slow."

Jenny Patterson:
"My friend was super drunk and I had to find someone to drive us home because I couldn't drive her car: it was a standard."

Ellyn Owens:
"I got a flat tire."

April Godby:
"I got stuck in a snowbank outside of town." (All of the snow was melted.)

Attempting to lick the frosting off his hostess cupcake, Scott Muir forgets to take off the plastic wrapper.

Singing along with the radio while her students cook, is Mrs. Marianne Timmons.

"What is the most unusual thing that you've ever done on a date?"

Jean Nelson:
"Poured bubble bath into Three Fountains."

Robyn Ricks:
"Ate dinner in a barn with a peacock wandering around."

Gary Baxter:
"Worked on my car."

Tami Daniels:
"Went to a very informal restaurant in formal attire.

Vicki Patterson:
"Ripped off marquee letters and construction cones."

Melissa Warren:
"Went on a picnic in a cow pasture."

Seeing a gorgeous guy, Christi Frost, Jeanie Gavin, Wendi Bennett, Tina Bowen, and Wendy Hoggan each give him their personal "hello" look.

Playing the innocent "brown-noser," Kathy DiLorenzo hugs Mrs. Carol Mills.

Giving us her morning groggy look is Marylyn Hatch.

"What was your most embarrassing moment in high school?"

Nathan Lange:
"Driving my pickup to school."

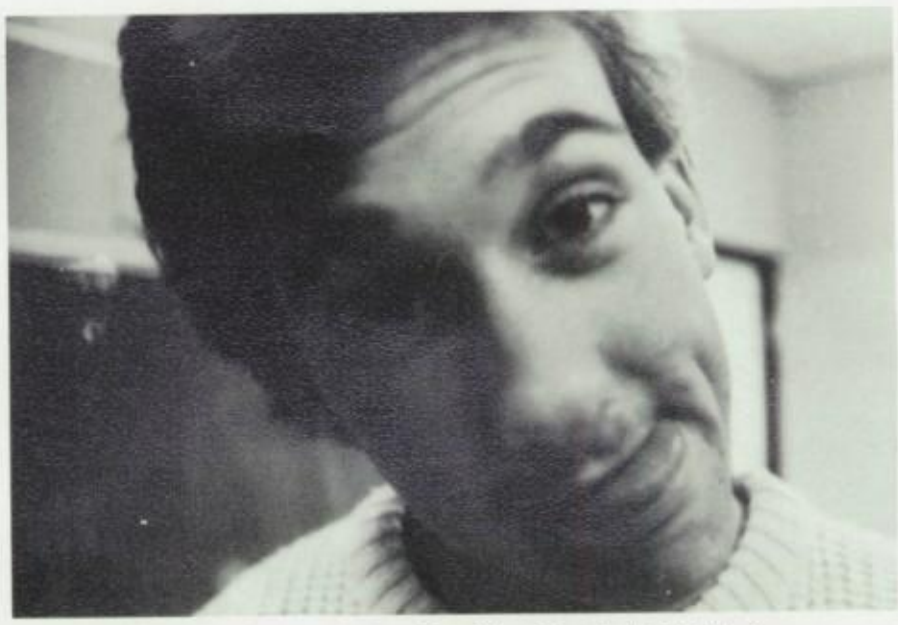
Debbie Newman:
"The day I got into a cream puff fight and lost."

Steve Daw:
"Getting my butt kicked in a rolled-up newspaper fight with Robin Burrell and Debbie Newman."

Mary Hammond:
"Being on Flagteam."

Lorette Green:
"Falling asleep in Mr. Begley's class."

Mary Ann Oakey:
"Hitting the gas pedal instead of the brake and going over the curb in driver's ed."



Returning from a visit to Blackfoot South is Mark Peters.

Having an actual "Certs encounter" are Juan Murdoch and Julie Williams.

Hoping to make the cover of G. Q. Magazine are Shon Baldwin, Jared Allen, Lance Charles, David Murdoch, and Gilbert Ruiz.

Sweeping Carolann Billman off her feet into a scruptious dip is Mike Meng.

"TURNIP THE RADIO"

(IDEA BY MARY HAMMOND)

"What was the stupidest excus you ever gave for being absent o tardy?"

Beth Thiel:
"My goldfish died and I had to give it a funeral."

Paul Griffin:
"The camper fell off the truck and I had to put it back on by myself."

Dirck Tromp:
"The army drafted me and I had to sign a bunch of papers."

Michelle DeGraw:
"I fell asleep while driving and went off the on ramp, so I had to go all the way to the Minidome to turn around."

Glenn Thorsen:
"My mom got stuck in the driveway and I had to go pull her out."

Marilyn Hart:
"I told Pattee that the car key wouldn't turn."

"I'm a mosquito!" slurps Colene Richert as she spies her next victim.

Expressing her opinion of caffeteria food is Cindy Meininger.

"Duh.....I forgot what I was going to say," stammers Brooke Wheeler.

Come and get it

Staff slaved over hot stove to serve up a cut-to-order menu.

For the 1984-85 Behemoth, the yearbook staff decided that we wanted a lighter, more fun approach to our book, rather than the more traditional themes that have been in Skyline's yearbooks the previous 18 years. We put up a bunch of theme ideas on the chalkboard at the beginning of the year. The one that sounded corney at first, was the one that appealed the most to us in the end. The more we looked at it and discussed its possible development, the more we liked it. "This Year's Menu," what a fun book it could make!

The next step was to write a list of hundreds of food words that we could work into our headlines, copy, and captions. Next, we went around the town and collected menus from various restaurants. We put a touch of the menu look into all of our layouts. We also decided to have a fold-out Gazette that unfolds just like the menu at Jake's restaurant. Away we went, thinking up more and more menu ideas and pouring them into our book.

Incalculable hours were chalked up by the staff to put the 1985 Behemoth together. While everyone else was out playing because the school closed for cold weather, the yearbook staff was in the Publications Office because our deadline didn't wait for the cold. I want to thank my staff for all they did. They came in wondering what a layout was and thought words like "pica" and "folio" were a foreign language. They went out with a great job done and a great yearbook to show for it.

The Photo Lab photographers also did a lot of work and I'd like to thank them for everything they did. A few beginning photographers also did some work for us too, and I want them to know that I appreciated them going the extra mile.

Special thanks to the many local merchants that supported our book with their ads and to the student body, administration, and faculty for cooperating with us on pictures, surveys, etc.

I really enjoyed being Editor-in-Chief of "This Year's Menu." There were times when I felt like I lived in the yearbook room and I was ready to quit. But it was all worth it because I think that we produced a great yearbook and I hope that the Skyline student body feels the same.

Bon Appetit

Endnotes

Technical ingredients for this year's recipe.

"This Year's Menu" was printed at Herff Jones in Logan, Utah. There were 800 copies, each containing 256 pages, of the 9 × 12 inch book published. It cost approximately $15,000 to print the 1985 Behemoth plus another $1,500 in supplies used by the Skyline Staff and photographers. Ads sales brought in about $2,000 and Clubs sales totaled around $1,000.

The majority of the yearbook was printed on Ainsworth #80 paper which added a menu touch to the book because of its texture. The exceptions were the fold-out Gazette, which was printed on Ermin Special paper with a matte finish, and "The Blue Pages", which were printed on Blue Colortext paper.

The cover material selected was a smokey blue Leather Text, a brand new material offered by Herff Jones, over a 160 weight board. The cover has a Spanish grain and an embossed design with school artwork. The printing was in two applied colors, baby blue and hot foil silver.

To put the frosting on the cake, the staff cut and tied silver elastic strings around the cover and inserted all of the tip-ins before distributing the book.

Special effects throughout the book included: cutout figures and cyan blue tool tape on the opening pages, use of a special vibralux parchment paper in the front, "The Blue Pages" for ads, the four page fold-out tip in for the Gazette, and cutout figures in the closing section.

Layout styles used in the book were: Theme—isolated element; Student Life—hanging from a line; Sports—sideline; Gazette—two column newspaper; Classes and Faculty—modular; Academics—mosaic; and Clubs—focal point.

Type selections include Brush and Helios. The type was set by the Skyline staff members.

All black and white and color pictures (except class and faculty portraits) were taken and processed by school staff members. Hart's Photography was contracted for the portraits.

Last Year, the 1984 Behemoth was awarded a 1st Class Rating by the National Scholastic Press Association.
